Redman plant hit by strike

Members of Local No. 768, International Union of Electrical Workers, went out on strike against Redman Industries, Inc., mobile home plant, 2000 Kinskill Ave., in the Washington C.H. Industrial Park, when their contract expired at midnight Tuesday, halting production at the plant.

The union, representing 57 plant construction and maintenance workers, established pickets at all plant entrances shortly after midnight.

The Washington C.H. plant parking lot was nearly empty Wednesday morning except for cars belonging to supervisory personnel.

Enos Smith, president of Local No. 768, said from his Dayton office that the main issues in the strike were the company's method of payment, dissatisfaction with the incentive system, and the company policy of selective vacations. Smith said other minor fringe benefits were also being negotiated.

Smith said he had contacted federal mediators in Columbus but had been unsuccessful in arranging a meeting with the company.

Smith would not comment further on the issues in the strike until a meeting had been held with members of Local No. 768.

Rene Clos, manager of the Washington C.H. mobile homes plant, could not be reached for comment on the situation.

newly independent Africa began modernizing itself in the 1960s.

Ironically, Selassie himself ordered the changes that eventually led to his downfall — the military training programs that exposed Ethiopian officers to democracy in the United States, and Haile Selassie University, where students learned to think in revolutionary terms.

Drought had taken more than 100,000 lives in Ethiopia by February 1974, when the armed forces mutinied for pay raises and then began nibbling away at the emperor's power and public support.

Though slightly built and barely 5 feet 2, the descendant of King Solomon and the Queen of Sheba, was an iron man who always used stern methods to suppress his enemies. Lij Yasu, the emperor from whom he seized the throne in 1928, was kept in chains for 19 years until he died.

Selassie was born Prince Tafari Makonnen on July 23, 1892, a member of the Ethiopian royal family but not in the direct line of succession to the throne. With the support of tribal barons he had himself proclaimed king in 1928 when there was friction between opposing factions of the royal family.

FAYETTE COUNTIANS figured heavily in the "Sale of Champions" held Monday at the Ohio State Fair with Rusty Coe, Rt. 1, Jeffersonville, selling the grand champion market barrow for a record price and Pennington Bread, Inc. of Washington C.H., purchasing the grand champion lamb.

However, Fayette County also figured into the picture in an indirect manner. . . Mike Bumgarner, of Mechanicsburg, owner of the grand champion steer which sold for a record $26,680 is the grandson of Mrs. W.O. Bumgarner, 622 Comfort Lane.

RESERVATIONS for the Washington C.H. area beef outlook meeting must be completed by Friday, according to John Gruber, Fayette County agricultural extension agent.

The meeting will be held beginning at 6 p.m. Wednesday, Sept. 3 in the Mahan Building on the Fayette County Fairgrounds.

The cost is $5 per person and reservations may be completed by contacting the Fayette County

'Nuances' remain to be resolved

Middle East peace pact nearly ready

ALEXANDRIA, Egypt (AP) — Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger says only "nuances" remain to be resolved in a new Israeli-Egyptian agreement providing for another Israeli pullback in the Sinai Desert.

Israeli officials in Jerusalem said today a key part of the pact already is complete and ready for signing. They said the completed section obliged both sides to refrain from "the use or threat of force" and was to be signed directly between Israel and Egypt.

Kissinger reported "remarkable progress" in the negotiations after his arrival from Israel late Tuesday afternoon to confer with President Anwar Sadat.

The Israeli officials said the completed portion — one of three sections in the pact — also specified permission for Israeli cargo to move through the Suez Canal and included an appendix of maps and timetables for territorial changes. They declined to say when it might be signed, but all indications were that it would be wrapped up before the end of the week.

Sadat said after greeting Kissinger that the agreement "is not only good for Egypt and for the Arab world, but it is for the sake of peace . . . for the Arabs and the Israelis.

"If this succeeds it will mean defusing of the situation," the Egyptian president declared.

Sadat repeatedly stressed the importance of peace. In reply to a newsman who noted that Egypt was also regaining territory, he said: "Territory? We shall be regaining our territory. But what we are after is peace."

However, a cautionary note came from Tahsen Bashir, a spokesman for Sadat, who said 10 per cent of the agreement was still to be worked out, and this should not be "lightly dismissed."

Diplomatic sources said the major problem still unresolved was the wording of the clauses covering Egyptian guarantees to limit economic and propaganda warfare against Israel, and the possible linking of the agreement to a similar agreement between Israel and Syria.

The sources added, however, that the pact would be of unlimited duration and would not depend on future Israeli concessions to Syria or Jordan.

Kissinger said that despite opposition from Senate Majority Leader Mike Mansfield, he believed the Ford Administration could get the approval of Congress to the stationing of about 200 American technicians at electronic surveillance posts in territory to be relinquished by Israel.

"We will consult very carefully with the Congress and our impression is that we can get it through after some serious debate," he said.

Under the agreement, Israel will pull back to the eastern foothills of the strategic Mt. Gidi passes and will return the Abu Rudeis oilfields.

The passes will be in the new United Nations buffer zone, but Israel and the United States will man a surveillance post on the Egyptian side of the Gidi pass; Israel and Egypt will staff one on the Israeli side, and American personnel will operate four other electronic observation centers to give advance warning of any attack.

Egypt and Israel will pledge not to resort to "the use or threat of force" for a period of more than three years, and Egypt will curb economic, political and propaganda warfare against Israel.

Egypt will allow Israeli cargoes to pass through the Suez Canal, and the United States will guarantee economic and military aid for Israel.

For city's teachers

Pre-school workshop scheduled Thursday

Dr. William D. Hitt, director of the center for improved education at Battelle Institute, Columbus, will be the guest speaker at a pre-school workshop for teachers in the Washington C.H. School District on Thursday.

Dr. Hitt will be speaking to city school district teachers and administrators during the first general session at 9 a.m. Thursday in the Washington C.H. Middle School auditorium.

Workshops dealing with four topics will be offered to teachers beginning at 1:30 p.m. in the Middle School auditorium, according to Superintendent Edwin M. Nestor.

Dr. Hitt, who received a doctorate degree in psychology from Ohio State University in 1956, has been employed at Battelle Institute since 1957 and was chief of the behavioral sciences division for 10 years. Much of his work during this period was devoted to educational research, with special emphasis on educational management.

According to Dr. Hitt, the mission of Battelle's center for improved education is to assist school districts and colleges increase their effectiveness through the humanistic application of existing knowledge. The center is guided by a humanistic philosophy of education. Throughout this philosophy is the belief that the scientific dimension of education should be united with the human dimension to effect constructive change. The center provides services in educational planning and management, instructional development, and educational data systems.

Dr. Hitt is a humanistic psychologist. His major interest is in the application of humanistic psychology to educational change. He is interested in all aspects of educational change, including management, instruction and information systems.

Dr. Hitt's primary interest is in educational redesign. He believes that the key to success in educational redesign will be for members of the broad educational community to work cooperatively in applying a rational and systematic approach to planning and operating their educational system.

Nestor said that for the afternoon workshop session, teachers will meet in the auditorium at 1:15 p.m. for a brief introduction of topics. Staff members may attend discussions of their choice following the introduction.

Individualization of instruction will be discussed by Mrs. Kay Trusty of Miami University, Oxford, Mrs.

Including operating tax levy

Three new issues set for November ballot

Three new issues have been submitted to the Fayette County Board of Elections for placement on the November general election ballot.

Of primary importance to county voters will be the .5-mill additional operating levy requested by the Fayette Progressive School.

A .63-mill levy for the school was turned down by county residents last fall when all proposed levies were defeated. After trimming the expansion of services suggested last year and considering recent inflation, the school is seeking a .5-mill increase in revenue.

The money would be used to combat inflated prices of current programs and to provide funds for some moderate improvements.

If approved the levy would remain in effect for 10 years.

A repeated attempt to sell liquor by the glass in Perry Township will be accompanied on the ballot this fall by a requested renewal of the one-mill fire protection levy.

The township is seeking a five-year renewal of the levy which provides funds for firefighting equipment, alarm and communication systems as well as payment for part-time and volunteer firemen.

Township residents will again have the opportunity to approve or reject a proposal to allow the sale of liquor by the glass. "Dry" for many years, Perry Township residents have defeated the question for several consecutive years.

The question has been filed by Mr. and Mrs. William Haines, owners and operators of the Mini Bar, Ohio 41-S, near Greenfield.

FAIR ROYALTY — Tammy Walters, second from right, who served as queen of the 1975 Fayette County Fair, was named to new Ohio County and Independent Fair queen's court at the Ohio State Fair. Tammy, the daughter of Sonny

It will be mostly sunny over Ohio today with temperatures ranging from the upper 70s north to the mid 80s in the extreme south. Humidities will be generally more agreeable. Clear skies will bring comfortably cool weather tonight.

Temperatures will be on a rising trend Thursday with highs in the 80s. The sultry weather and thunderstorms of the last few days finally have given way to a drier air mass moving in from the northwest.

Temperatures were several degrees cooler over much of northern Ohio last night. At daybreak, most readings were in the 60s. The coolest section was in the northwest, where Toledo reported 55 degrees. In the southeast corner of the state it was still around 70. The morning weather map showed a cold front across West Virginia and Kentucky.

Comprehensive energy bill in effect

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—Ohio has a new energy agency with broad authority to launch the state on a course toward development of alternate fuel and conservation of existing resources.

Gov. James A. Rhodes signed legislation creating the agency Tuesday, but the line-item vetoed a section he said would have permitted it "to disregard the actions of any other state agency or local political subdivision."

The energy bill was the product of a last minute compromise between majority Democrats in the legislature and Rhodes who vetoed an earlier Democratic energy plan.

In addition to establishing an Energy Resource and Development Agency (ERDA), it provides a 30-year tax abatement as an incentive to attract a coveted $142.3 million federal coal gasification plant to Ohio.

The new state department can build power plants and coal conversion facilities, issue revenue bonds to finance energy development and aid industry in converting from gas to coal.

The section of the bill objectionable to Rhodes stated that "no public agency or political subdivision of this state may require any approval, consent, permit, certificate or other condition for the construction or initial operation of an Energy Resource and Development Facility." It allowed that the language is "notwithstanding any other provision" of state law.

Rhodes said, however, that it would have the effect of exempting ERDA from environmental regulations and local zoning ordinances.

"Although the energy crisis we are facing demands full and imaginative solutions by state government," Rhodes said, "I do not believe it is necessary to completely disregard and render null and void the important functions of local zoning ordinances and other permit responsibilities of public agencies."

The compromise with Democrats gave the governor authority to appoint all five of ERDA's voting members and he is expected to do so within 10 days. The legislature will appoint four ex-officio members to the agency's board of trustees.

The agency is expected to begin functioning promptly, but Rhodes aides say it will not be able to move quickly enough to stave off power shortages this winter.

The tax break for the Coalcon demonstration plant is an effort to give Ohio a competitive edge over five other midwestern and border states under consideration for the facility. Rhodes has been pushing for months to bring the plant to Ohio.

Rhodes also signed a bill creating an Ohio Land Use Review Committee to study land development, zoning and environmental and agricultural regulations.

The committee, which may be established immediately under the bill, is to submit a report and recommendations to the General Assembly by next June 30. It will consist of a gubernatorial appointee, seven senators and seven state representatives.

Also signed by the governor and effective immediately were bills to:

—Bring Ohio in compliance and allow participation in the 1974 federal National Health Planning and Resources Development Act, which replaced and updated a number of federal health plans that expired last year.

—Broaden legal requirements for individuals to report violent or unusual deaths to public officials and prohibit disturbance of such bodies.

Rhodes signed legislation effective Nov. 25:

—Prohibiting the assignment of a mortgage to be listed by the county recorder unless it contains the mailing address of the person to whom the note and mortgage have been sold or transferred.

—Requiring the health department to record marriage dissolutions in the same manner as divorces.

—Permitting state child care subsidies in some instances for relatives who remain home to look after a child.

—Requiring the state to pay a proportional cost of special elections it conducts simultaneous with local elections.

—Requiring the state to provide free office space in the Ohio Departments Building in Columbus for all recognized Ohio veterans organizations.

Stock list down again

NEW YORK (AP) — Prices declined slightly again in the stock market today amid continuing edginess over inflation and rising interest rates.

Trading was slow.

The 11:30 a.m. Dow Jones average of 30 industrials was off .86 at 802.25, and losers outnumbered gainers by about a 5-3 margin on the New York Stock Exchange.

The Dow dipped briefly below 800 early in the session. But at that point some bargain hunters moved in with the encouragement of the government's report that its index of leading economic indicators posted its fifth straight rise last month.

The index is designed to give advance signs of developing economic trends.

Commerce Secretary Rogers Morton, however, warned that the strong uptrend in the index might not continue.

The NYSE's composite index of all its listed common stocks slipped .12 to 44.59 in the first hour.

On the American Stock Exchange, the market value index was down .29 at 83.70.

Boy's heart outside body

PHILADELPHIA (AP) —

Christopher and Teresa Wall should be depressed. Their newborn baby is not well, neither one has a job and their medical bills are high.

But they are happy because their son is alive despite the fact he was born with his heart outside his body, a defect doctors believe no other infant has ever survived.

"We're just going day by day," Mrs. Wall, 20, told reporters at Children's Hospital here Tuesday. "We're thanking God every day he's still alive."

"He's looking more like a little boy now, without all his tubes and everything."

Christopher John Wall Jr., the first child of the Ft. Lauderdale, Fla., couple, lies on his back on an "infant warmer" in the hospital's intensive care unit, his condition critical but stable.

When he was born Aug. 10 at Garden State Community Hospital in nearby Marlton, N.J., doctors found that he had no sternum, the elastic cartilage that connects the front of the ribs.

The bulk of his heart protruded through his chest, with only the upper end remaining within the chest cavity. The condition is called ectopia cordis, and doctors say medical literature lists fewer than 200 previous cases.

The child was rushed to Children's Hospital, where in a four-hour operation Dr. Robert G. Kettrick and Dr. Naresh C. Saxena covered the exposed heart with a flap of skin.

Christopher's heart can clearly be seen beating under its thin covering.

Kettrick said of the decision to leave the heart outside the body:

"The previous cases ended in failure because attempts were made to put the heart back in the chest cavity. This child probably did well because no final effort was made to put the heart back in the chest, but rather just to protect it."

The two doctors said more surgery will be necessary to correct another, less serious, heart defect, but both voiced cautious optimism about the infant's future.

They said eventually some effort may be made to put Christopher's heart back in his chest. Until then, some sort of shield will be fashioned to protect the exposed organ, they said.

Wall, 23, said he had no idea how he would pay the medical bills. He said he has applied for aid from New Jersey's Crippled Children's Fund.

Little boy, 4, fair's 1 millionth visitor

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Christopher Messmer's aunt felt it was time for his first state fair.

For Chris, 4, of Columbus, it was a memorable one. He was celebrated as the 1,000,000th entrant into the 1975 Ohio State Fair.

More than 2 million fairgoers are expected at the Ohio exposition center before the 12-day fair ends Sept. 1. Attendance was 2,167,296 in 1974 with record attendance the year before at 2,223,589.

Tuesday's attendance reached 185,078, boosting the year's total to 1,181,062 for the first six days. The total is down from 1,199,225 from last year.

Chris came with a relative, Mrs. William Barker of Twinsburg, who held his hand as he crossed the fair entrance about 8:45 a.m.

As a reward for his accomplishment, Chris received a stuffed miniature buffalo, ride tickets and free passes to some exhibits.

The Young Americans, a group composed of 30 young people between the ages of 15 and 20, entertain at the grandstand Wednesday at 4:30 p.m. and 8:30 p.m. The group presented two full days of shows,

Tuna fishermen's gripe

American tuna fishermen have a point in arguing that it is unfair that international regulations on tuna fishing are enforced against them alone. To the extent that this is true, they are justified in their complaint. If fishing vessels of other countries in the eight-nation group operating under the regulations are not being policed, the American fleet has a legitimate gripe.

Whether the projected U.S. fleet "parade" into the San Diego port is the most sensible means of complaining is another question. This is a costly gesture - costly for boat owners, cannery or fishermen alike. There is no doubt, however, that this massing of vessels in the port will focus a lot of attention on the matter. This may lead to a solution of what does appear to be a severe handicap for American fishermen.

Under present circumstances, American boats report their positions daily to the U.S. Coast Guard, and are subject to heavy penalties for failure to comply with regulations. The American fleet's grievance is that foreign tuna boats escape similar regulation and thus fill their holds much more easily. There are recourses in the law. Our government can, if it chooses, impose embargoes against foreign-caught fish if the boats do not comply with regulations. Also, under such circumstances the regulations can be suspended. The government should pay attention to what the American tuna fishermen are saying. If their version of what is going on appears to be true, corrective action should be taken without delay.

A WORD EDGEWISE... By John P. Roche

Jawing back at plastic people

CHILMARK, Mass. — It has been a good August on Martha's Vineyard. True, the thermometer at Alley's store in West Tisbury did reach 102 that appalling first weekend, giving the temporary impression that the Island had been moved to the Solomons. But since then, with the exception of a few misty days, the weather has been spectacular. Above all, we have not been subjected to God's punishment for loose living: the Northeast. For the benefit of the uninitiated who have never survived a Northeast in flimsy, unheated summer housing, it is a baleful act of nature. For at least three days, and sometimes up to five, the rain pelts, the meadows turn into swamps (the clay pan in our area keeps the water from properly running into the soil), clothes turn soggy, and moss begins growing on people. Strong men have been weeping and the weak in heart head for the ferry.

Sturdier souls mobilize the children and head for the "Flying Horses" in Oak Bluffs — surely one of the last authentic merry-go-rounds in the country. A decade or more ago, I recall spending five hours there in loco parentis to about 15 kids from our place. I tried to renew my lost expertise on pin-ball machines, but inflation has hit everywhere since World War II: if you gave the machines the slightest help (say, by hitting the side with your fist), the "TILT" light went on. However, this year there has been no need for these therapeutic safaris; a little fog never keeps our crew off the beach.

A source of mild interest has been the movie "Jaws," which we watched them film last summer. If you had seen the film crew out pumping up the phony shark of Edgartown (with kids joyously exercising their rights under sea law by sailing Sunfish in the path of the cameras), it was hard to take the whole thing seriously. But our sense of duty prevailed and a delegation, including three of our resident movie critics noted for their acerbic wit, was dispatched to present a report. "A real shark and a number of plastic people," was the collective verdict. They also hoped that viewers throughout the nation would not get the notion that if you walked down the street at Edgartown, you would arrive at the Menemsha wharf — or that you could walk a few blocks to Gay Head. (Warning: both of these "walks" would be westward treks across the width of the Island, so bring a vehicle or a pair of hiking boots and a well-conditioned physique.)

I might add that, in view of the publicity about the scary scenes, we engaged in an immunization program instituted by a professor of medicine. This involved having shark steaks for dinner. (They are not openly advertised as shark steaks, but have a "nom de mer" borrowed from the Indians. For reasons to be explained, I have a mental block on this alias, but it was something like "Mickuki.") At the risk of losing readers who have a passion for shark steaks, I feel compelled to note that although they resemble swordfish somewhat, they taste like the cardboard in which frozen swordfish is wrapped. Yet the immunization seemed to work: at an allegedly horrendous point in the story, the junior critic yawned and inquired, "Can't we go home to bed?"

What aroused the most indignation about "Jaws" was its implication that the local officials were a collection of bungling clods. In fact, close, sustained reading of the police blotter — a feature in our distinguished weekly (twice weekly in the summer), "The Vineyard Gazette" — suggests that the island officials can easily hold their own with mainland sophisticates. In this connection, I can't resist extended quotation from the trial of one Greg Landers for "sleeping in public." Landers, an alleged "street priest," had been up the week before, fined $50 for trespass, and denounced all and sundry with prophetic vigor. This time he asked that decision be postponed.

Judge Walter Steele: "Request denied. We'll settle this matter this morning, monsignor. We've been looking into you. Just how long have you been posing as a clergyman, anyway?"

Landers: "Are you challenging my status as a priest?"

Judge: "You've been in court more than you've been on the street. Since you've been here you have been a pain in the neck to the police and the people of Martha's Vineyard." Landers then launched on a sad tale, concluding: "I am deeply traumatized. I don't like being arrested for sleeping in public... I'm a victim. I have been victimized." Judge Steele, unmoved: "You're going to be further victimized. I'm fining you $50 (or) you'll go to jail or take the first ferry off the Island."

Landers: "You can't kick me off the Island. You can't send me back to that insanity they call the mainland. My family goes back five generations here."

Judge: "I can't banish you... that would be unconstitutional. But our jailhouse here is at least five generations old, and it should suit you just fine." Now I ask you, friends, what court on the mainland features repartee to match that? When "Jaws" featured the locals as yokels, it really missed the scene.

'Sunshine bill' foes unhappy

By ROBERT E. MILLER
Associated Press Writer

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Two youthful members of the Ohio House, sons of fathers who once served as speakers of that chamber, voted "no" on the open meetings bill approved by the recently adjourned 111th General Assembly.

The two dissenters, among a handful of members voting in opposition, were Reps. Charles R. Saxbe, R-75 Mechanicsburg, and C. William O'Neill, R-28 Columbus.

Saxbe's father is U.S. Ambassador to India and a former U.S. Attorney General; O'Neill's father is Chief Justice of the Ohio Supreme Court.

Both young men said they favored the legislation in concept, but felt it was hurriedly written and, in effect, created more problems than it solved.

The younger O'Neill, whose father was speaker in 1947-1948 and governor from 1958-1960, said the open meetings measure was "a very simple bill on a very complex subject."

The 28-year-old Columbus attorney noted that as written the bill would enable an applicant for a professional license to sit in on a meeting of a state board that was making up questions for a qualifying examination.

"There are a lot of other things in the bill that we will have to come back later and clean up," he said.

Saxbe said he agreed generally with

O'Neill that the bill created problems, particularly with local governments where he felt it would invite "disruptive participation by those more interested in disrupting the governmental process than they are in having open meetings."

The freshman lawmaker, 27, also objected, he said, to the exclusion of the General Assembly from the bill's provisions.

Saxbe said he understood that the Ohio Constitution permits the legislature and its committees to go into executive session by a two-thirds vote of the their members, and that drafters of the bill felt they couldn't legally include the legislature.

Dear Abby:

ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

Boyfriend's kisses are not helping romance

DEAR ABBY: I'm going with a wonderful guy named Morris. He's a terrific fellow, but he has one fault. When he kisses me, he gets carried away and bites my lips. After an evening with Morris, my lips are bruised and raw-sometimes they even bleed!

My mother keeps asking me what's the matter with my lips, and I keep making up excuses. (They're "chapped.")

Will you please tell me how I can get Morris to take it easy when he kisses me? I have told him a dozen times not to be so rough, but he forgets. This is no put-on.

SORE LIPS

DEAR SORE: When Morris "forgets" and gets rough, give him a good klop on the back to remind him to take it easy. And keep it up until he's conditioned.

DEAR ABBY: I'm a 34-year-old widow who fell in love with a married man. (I'll call him Rex.) He has two children. We've been seeing each other for 18 months, and I love him dearly. Rex says he loves me and needs me, and as soon as he's financially able to swing it, he'll divorce his wife and marry me.

Rex still lives with his wife, but claims that he has had nothing to do with her since he met me. Here is the part that just about drove me to suicide: He told me yesterday that his wife is now pregnant! He swears it isn't his, but how can I be sure?

I have an 8-year-old son who worships Rex, and if I were to break off with him, it would be almost as though my son were losing another father because Rex treats him like a son.

How much longer should I give Rex?

LOVES HIM

DEAR LOVES: The advice from here is say goodbye now and tell Rex that you don't want to see his face until he is a free man.

In the meantime, you'd better start planning your life without him because as I see it, that is what you will have to do eventually.

DEAR ABBY: This is for the man whose wife is driving him up the wall by her constant use of "you know" in every sentence.

Rejoice! At least "you know" implies that you can comprehend what is being said.

We have a brother who ends almost every sentence with "understand?" This leaves one with the feeling that his mental capacity to follow a simple conversation is somewhat in doubt.

Far better "you know" than "understand?"

HIS SISTER, UNDERSTAND?

DEAR SISTER: I understand, you know.

TV Viewing

By JAY SHARBUTT

AP Television Writer
NEW YORK (AP) — It's depressing to return to Fun City after a one-week, two-perch fishing vacation. It isn't hard to know you're back in Fun City. At dawn, you can hear the sparrows coughing.

This isn't much of a fishing town. Here, they think a HulaPopper is a Hawaiian hit man. But there's always TV, which reminds us that the new season is creeping up on us.

Serious creeping began Monday with a two-hour premiere of "Beacon Hill," the new CBS series that differs from "Upstairs, Downstairs" in that it wears 1920 Bostonians. Its normal run starts next Tuesday.

Jeff DAR dedicates marker at McKillip family Cemetery

William Horney Chapter, Daughters of the American Revolution, Jeffersonville, dedicated a DAR bronze marker at 2 p.m. Sunday, Aug. 24, for Thomas Wicker Jr., N.C., a Revolutionary War soldier, buried in the McKillip Cemetery, Gregg Rd., near Jeffersonville, Ohio. There were more than 50 people present for the Bi-Centennial dedication ceremony.

Thomas Wicker Jr. was born June 1, 1760, in Granville County, N.C., and served in battles in 1782, being paid for his services by the State of North Carolina "Archives of North Carolina" and "History of Raleigh". He was the son of Thomas Wicker Sr., born Aug. 11, 1717, in Virginia.

In December, 1780, Thomas Wicker Jr. married Sally Talley of Granville County, N.C. The time of her death is not known. He then married Margery Crews, his second wife, Oct. 11, 1786. He came to Jefferson Township, Fayette County, Ohio, with his daughter, Elizabeth and her husband John McKillip, 1808. He died in June, 1818, and was buried in the family cemetery now known as the McKillip Cemetery.

Mrs. Louis Ulen, Regent, presided at the dedication ceremony. Participating in the dedication were Mr. Gordon McCarty, Mayor of Jeffersonville, who gave a most cordial welcome. The Rev. Eugene Griffith, pastor of the Jeffersonville United Methodist Church, gave the invocation. The presentation of colors was made by the Boy Scouts and Cub Scouts from Troop 67 of Jeffersonville.

Breast cancer ads prove worth

MIAMI (AP) — Bare breasts, long barred from family television screens, are showing up on daytime and late-night TV in advertisements designed to teach women how to test for breast cancer.

"We reach a lot of people and it's possible to anger or offend some of them, but if it's important to do it, then we're going to," says Doug Duperrault, program director for WFLA in Tampa.

Frank Struzzi, film manager of WCKT in Miami, says no viewers have complained to his station about the ad. "If it just helps one person, I feel very good about it," he said.

Duperrault, who produced the ad as a volunteer for the Florida Cancer Society, says the one-minute spot has been used many times by some 35 stations all over the state.

Alabama and Mississippi have requested copies, and Duperrault hopes Florida's success means the ad will be adopted for use nationwide.

"We're pioneering with it — anything showing a bare breast right in the home would be offensive to some people," he said. "But the time was right. The publicity spurred by Betty Ford and Happy Rockefeller made women want to know how to examine themselves for cancer."

The wives of both the president and vice president underwent operations for removal of cancerous breasts.

Breast cancer is the leading cause of death among women, hitting one out of 15. There is a 40 to 45 per cent survival rate, but doctors say early detection could reduce the number of deaths by half.

"My feeling is if you're going to show a woman how to examine herself, then you show her. You don't use puppets or women in leotards — you show exactly how," Duperrault said.

Duperrault said that only one station in St. Petersburg refused to use the spot. "The others were 100 per cent positive," he said.

"Complaints don't exceed a couple of dozen — we're happy with that. In fact, we got letters with donations."

There's more to orange juice than vitamin C

Way back in the 1700's there wasn't as much information available as there is today on the importance of oranges in the diet. Now, modern day consumers know there's more to Florida OJ than just vitamin C.

In fact, orange juice is probably the most researched food in the country. At the University of Florida, this beverage is carefully studied and analyzed to determine its nutritive benefits. To date, research at the University has shown that OJ is a good source of folic acid, which prevents a nutritional deficiency anemia. Both pregnant and oral contraceptive-using women often develop this anemia.

And, OJ is low in sodium, important for those on low-sodium diets. Its high potassium content means that three 8-ounce glasses of OJ daily can effectively replace the bad tasting potassium supplement that many people on diuretics are required to take.

So, when you drink to your health, drink great tasting Florida OJ... it's more than just vitamin C.

Sport parachuting, skydiving Rotary Club's topic

Sport parachuting and skydiving was the topic at the regular weekly luncheon meeting of the Washington C.H. Rotary Club Tuesday in the Country Club.

Jack Fitzwater, of the Greene County Sport Parachute Center, near Xenia, briefly outlined the operation of the sport parachute center, which is located four miles east of Xenia off U.S. 35 on Monroe Siding Road.

A number of experienced parachutists provide complete instruction to students at the center, Fitzwater said. The center also has a large staff of experienced jump pilots.

Fitzwater, who has logged 1,500 jumps, told Rotary Club members the center near Xenia is one of the largest in the nation and more students (over 15,000) have been trained at the school near Xenia than any other in the country.

There are 30 master parachutists at the center with more than 1,000 jumps and one has over 5,000 jumps.

Four Cessna 180s provide jumping for students seven days a week. The center's senior pilot has logged over 5,000 hours flying time.

Students are required to complete a five-hour ground training course with a heavy emphasis on safety at the center before their first jump, Fitzwater said. The Federal Aviation Administration (FAA) has sanctioned the center.

Students as young as 16 years of age can participate with consent of their parents. The center also trained a 63-year-old man.

Fitzwater explained many of the facets of skydiving to Rotarians, including the competitive events which gauge a jumper's accuracy in attempting to land on a five-inch disc.

The expert skydivers are able to control their movement with special gear, he said.

Precision jumping, which includes as many as 35 skydivers forming a large star in midair by joining hands, freefall maneuvers and other highly-skilled techniques were explained briefly by Fitzwater.

Following his address to Rotarians, Fitzwater presented a color film which featured exciting aerial photography.

In the movie, cameras were attached to the jumpers' helmets.

The meeting was conducted by club president William E. Williams and Donald Murdock arranged the program.

During the meeting, Williams announced that the district governor will be making his official visit to the Washington C.H. next Tuesday.

The district governor will meet with all club officers and various committee chairman at 10 a.m. Tuesday in the Country Club.

Henry Sobocinski, plant manager of the Thatcher Plastics Co. in the Washington C.H. Industrial Park, was accepted as a new member. He was sponsored by John Lachat.

Visiting Rotarians were Jerry Ardrey of London and James Mossbarger of Greenfield. Guests were Dave McMillan with Lee Kraus and Dr. Kooi-Wham Chan.

Feeling tense and nervous? Count your pork and beans

PORTLAND, Ore. (AP) — An excellent way to cope with the frustrations and uncertainties of today's society is to count your beans before chewing them, says a friendly neighborhood philosopher.

Jerome Techtman, a welder, says: "For many years when I would sit down, open and eat a little eight-ounce can of ... pork and beans.

"I would count as I ate, and through the years the number of beans in each can always varied between 325 and 340.

"My troubles would vanish and relief was immediate."

The 62-year-old ex-tavern owner is considered something of a philosopher around his neighborhood in north Portland and in the pipe shop where he works.

He has other remedies "to help make life worth living in a day when no one seems to believe in anything."

Flowers abound around his home, and 10 years ago he drilled a hole in the dining room wall "just to let the outside ivy in," he said.

It now grows on all walls and the ceiling of the room.

"That way, you don't have to paint the walls and ceiling," he said while munching his beans — 93, 94, 95 ...

Some things he has no remedy for, however.

"The other day I was going through my records and found that I used to buy those little cans of beans six for a quarter. The ones now on my shelf — I am never without them — are marked 17 cents each.

"And what's worse, each can now contains only about 186 beans, the rest is soup on top."

Grand jury to eye Hoffa case

DETROIT (AP) — A federal grand jury will hear from 70 witnesses beginning next Tuesday as prosecutors step up efforts to learn the fate of former Teamsters union president Jimmy Hoffa.

Among the early witnesses will be Hoffa's foster son, Charles L. "Chuckie" O'Brien, a union organizer whom sources describe as a key figure in the probe of Hoffa's mysterious disappearance July 30.

U.S. Atty. Ralph Guy said Tuesday his office has no information about Hoffa not already gathered by the FBI during a three-week nationwide hunt for the 62-year-old ex-union boss.

"The grand jury is not receiving evidence for indictments," Guy said. "It is wearing its investigative hat. We hope evidence generated by this jury together with what investigators have will provide additional leads."

Hoffa vanished without a trace after leaving his home, reportedly for a scheduled meeting at a fashionable suburban restaurant with Detroit Mafia figure Anthony "Tony Jack" Giacalone.

Robert Ozer, who heads the U.S. Attorney's Organized Crime Strike Force here, revealed at a court hearing Tuesday that the government plans to call 70 witnesses before the jury.

Ozer would not disclose the names of others the government would call, but he said no members of Hoffa's immediate family had been subpoenaed.

However, sources close to the investigation say Giacalone is among those subpoenaed. Giacalone has denied he arranged to meet Hoffa on the day Hoffa vanished.

It is believed subpoenas also have been issued to other Hoffa friends and business associates, several underworld figures and persons who saw him just before he disappeared.

Ozer appeared before U.S. District Judge Fred Kaess to respond to a request by O'Brien's attorney for a two-day delay in a scheduled Sept. 2 jury appearance because O'Brien is moving his family from Arkansas to Florida. Kaess ordered a one-day delay.

During the hearing, Ozer said O'Brien, who was questioned for more than eight hours by FBI agents over the past two weeks, "has raised many more questions than he has answered."

O'Brien reportedly told the FBI that he was driving in the area where Hoffa disappeared at about the time Hoffa was last seen. O'Brien reportedly said it was a coincidence.

He has declined to take a polygraph test to support his account.

One source said investigators are operating on the theory that Hoffa was ordered kidnaped and killed by individuals high in the Mafia because his attempt to regain union power threatened their interests.

In auto theft trial

Not guilty verdict returned by jurors

Lack of an eye-witness for the state placed sufficient doubts in the minds of a Fayette County Common Pleas court jury to bring a not guilty verdict for a Columbus man charged with auto theft.

Although assistant Fayette County prosecuting attorney John H. Roszmann presented several pieces of circumstantial evidence against David T. Richardson, 21, Columbus, no one was able to identify the defendant as the driver of an automobile stolen from a Temple Street residence last April.

The only witness for the state who actually saw the driver was Fayette County Sheriff's Deputy Charles Wise who spotted the stolen car on U.S. 22-E and Hess Road, but could say only that the driver had medium-length blonde hair.

The blue Corvette sped down Hess Road, and Wise alerted backed off as the vehicle approached a sharp turn. The car spun out of control, but the driver fled the scene before the deputy could see him.

The prosecution rested its case on the discovery of a tennis shoe found in a field to the left of the accident site. It was a twin for the shoe Richardson was wearing when he was arrested shortly after the incident.

Deputies testified that the defendant was wearing bib overalls, a blue shirt and one tennis shoe when arrested. The shoe in the field was a mate for the one he was wearing. Officers also found blue thread on a barbed wire fence separating the field from the roadway, but by the time it was found, the defendant had been released on bond and it could not be compared to Richardson's shirt.

Defense counselor Ralph Thomen of Columbus argued that the evidence was not sufficient to warrant a conviction. He pointed out that a check of the wrecked vehicle had produced no fingerprints matching those of the defendant. Tennis shoes, he contended, are commonplace and did not prove the defendant was at the scene.

The vehicle belonged to James H. Comstock of Newark, who was visiting Washington C.H. at the time of the theft. He had reported it stolen just prior to the time Wise sighted the auto.

After two days of testimony, the jury began its deliberations Tuesday afternoon and returned its verdict just after 4 p.m.

Seated on the jury were Gary Hidy, foreman, Jack White, Frances Allen, Margaret Engle, Carl Steinhauer, Rebecca Sollars, Paul Sherrett, Connie Brown, Sandy Pope, Marcia Clark, Gloria Neiswenter and Terry Trimmer. Doris Wipert, the alternate juror, was not called upon to deliberate.

Defendant pleads guilty in Highland murder case

HILLSBORO — Following a day and a half of proceedings in Highland County Common Pleas Court, the murder trial of a Greenfield man came to an end at noon Tuesday as the defendant pleaded guilty to a lesser charge.

Arthur (Sonny) Jenkins, 24, of Greenfield, pleaded guilty to a charge of involuntary manslaughter. This was reduced from the original murder charge through plea bargaining by attorneys.

In accepting the plea, Judge Darrell Hottle commented, "The evidence thus far would not sustain the charge of murder."

Jenkins pleaded guilty to causing the death of James Coe, 79, also of Greenfield, on April 17. Judge Hottle immediately sentenced Jenkins to a term of five to 25 years in the Ohio State Reformatory.

Jenkins was one of two men implicated in Coe's death. The other man, Donald Pryor, 35, of Greenfield, is scheduled to go on trial September 8.

A jury had been seated in the case Monday and had visited the crime scene. Five witnesses for the state had been called before the plea bargaining.

Coe was reportedly beaten to death in an altercation between him and the two defendants. He died three hours later in the emergency room of Greenfield Municipal Hospital.

Disaster aid eyed for Cleveland

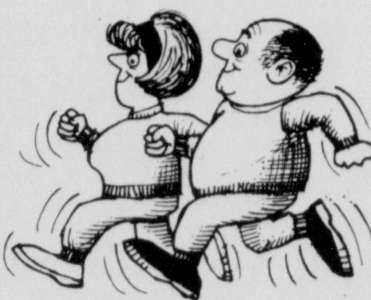

CLEVELAND, Ohio (AP)— This storm-damaged city has convinced state officials to ask the federal government for disaster relief aid although the city's chances to receive the aid have been termed "borderline."

Even while state, federal and city officials toured areas damaged by the Sunday storm, a second storm swept through the area Tuesday, causing power outages, a street collapse and traffic disruptions.

No serious injuries were reported in contrast to Sunday's storm when four persons died.

Frank Ruvio Jr., acting director of the Ohio Disaster Services Agency, recommended Cleveland for financial assistance and added the city's case was "borderline."

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Some 19 persons are expected to die on state roads during the 78-hour Labor Day weekend, state safety experts predicted on Tuesday.

Projected figures for the extended holiday weekend show the fatalities could include one bicyclist, two motorcyclists, two pedestrians and 14 killed in other motor vehicle accidents.

Ohio Highway Safety Director Donald Cook said the state highway patrol has been alerted to strictly enforce the 55-mile-per-hour speed limit during the weekend which begins at 6 p.m. Friday and ends at midnight Monday.

Soil, water conservation annual meet set Sept. 4

The Fayette County Soil and Water Conservation District will hold its annual meeting at 6:30 p.m. Thursday, Sept. 4 in the Mahan Building on the Fayette County Fairgrounds.

L. Bennett Coy, of Dayton, general manager of the Miami Conservancy District, will be the featured speaker for the annual meeting.

A graduate of Ohio University, Athens, Coy is past president of the Ohio Water Management Association and a member of the executive committee of the Interstate Conference of Water Problems, Council of State Governments.

During the annual meeting one district supervisor will be elected to serve a three-year term. Nominees for the expiring term are John A. Peterson, Jasper Township, and Fred Cook, Paint Township.

Sounds Unlimited eyes beer permit

Sounds Unlimited, 131 S. Fayette St., hopes to be adding a new wrinkle shortly. In addition to near-beer and other non-alcoholic drinks, the discotheque plans to add 3.2 percent beer to the beverage list.

Owner Harry Chakeres has submitted an application to the Ohio Department of Liquor Control for a D-1 liquor permit. If such a license is approved, it would allow the sale of 3.2 percent beer to be consumed on the premises or for carry-out. The sale of high beer or liquor would not be permitted with such a license.

The application is now being processed and considered by the state liquor department.

Reds high despite big lead

Ninth inning hit edges Cubs

CHICAGO (AP) — If the Cincinnati Reds are having difficulty maintaining their enthusiasm because of their tremendous lead in the National League West, it wasn't evident Tuesday.

Trailing 5-4 in the ninth after the first two batters struck out looking at Steve Stone's curves and a 1-2 count on pinch batter Terry Crowley, the Reds stunned the Chicago Cubs with two hard-earned runs for a 6-5 victory.

Crowley kept things alive with a single, Pete Rose walked, Ken Griffey beat out his speciality—an infield hit—and Joe Morgan singled off first baseman Andy Thornton's glove to send across the tying and winning runs.

Why didn't the Reds just forget about what has to be another meaningless game?

"We hadn't been playing well before we got here," said Manager Sparky Anderson. "We weren't generating anything. We weren't enthusiastic."

"It's hard to retain your motivation when you have the lead we have but I think the guys just kicked themselves and decided to go out and win it."

"The one thing I don't want them to start doing is marking time," said Anderson. "And it is tough to avoid under the circumstances. I guess I get a little greedy at times and expect them to win 'em all. But one thing I've never seen these guys do is go out and give the people a bad show."

The Cubs jumped off to a 4-0 lead in the first inning on a three-run homer by Jerry Morales followed by a solo shot by Thornton. They added another in the fifth on a walk, a double by Bill Madlock and an infield out.

Tony Perez singled in a pair of unearned runs in the Cincinnati third. Morgan tripled and scored on Perez's sacrifice fly in the sixth before Johnny Bench belted his 25th homer. Then came the winning rally in the ninth.

"The whole idea was that we wanted to come back and beat them," said Bench. "The Cubs aren't keyed up like the Pirates and Cardinals were. Those teams are in the pennant race."

There was some question about Morgan's hit which rolled foul after Thornton made a diving block of the ball as pinch runner Dave Concepcion scored the tying run from third and the ever hustling Rose scored all the way from second.

"I hit the ball good," said Morgan whose game-winning hit gave him 13 for the season and broke him out of a three-way tie with Perez and Rose in that department. "The ball was bending away from him and was just fair. With a lot of first basemen in this league it would have gone down the line for a triple."

A funny thing happened to the St. Louis Cardinals Tuesday night ... for the second night in a row.

Monday night, the Cards trailed Houston by a run with two out in the bottom of the 11th but salvaged a tie when the skies opened and rained the game out.

It was rescheduled as part of a two-nighter Tuesday. St. Louis trailed the Astros 8-1 after 6½ innings in the opener but pulled with six runs in the seventh and rallied it out 10-9 on Reggie Smith's run-scoring single in the 12th.

The nightcap was a more-or-less routine 2-1 triumph for the Redbirds and the sweep lifted them into second place in the National League's East Division, three games behind the Pittsburgh Pirates, who whipped Atlanta 8-2, and one game ahead of the Philadelphia Phillies, who bowed to Los Angeles 8-1.

Elsewhere, the New York Mets downed the San Diego Padres 7-2, the Cincinnati Reds edged the Chicago Cubs 6-5 and the San Francisco Giants nipped the Montreal Expos 4-3.

Houston raked four St. Louis pitchers for 20 hits in the opener — none of them a home run by Cliff Johnson — but the Cards bounced back in the seventh, sparked by Hector Cruz' bases-loaded triple. Mike Tyson's two-out single in the eighth sent the contest into overtime and Smith's single won it in the 12th after Bake McBride's single, a sacrifice and an intentional walk to Ted Simmons.

Ron Fairly's homer and Harry Rasmussen's RBI single and five-hit pitching paced St. Louis in the nightcap.

Pirates 8, Braves 2

Duffy Dyer's two-run single capped a six-run first inning in which the first eight Pittsburgh batters hit safely against Jamie Easterly and Ray Sadecki. Frank Taveras' triple and singles by Rennie Stennett, Al Oliver, Willie Stargell and Richie Zisk chased Easterly. Dave Parker, Richie Hebner and Duffy Dyer also singled — Dyer driving in two runs — before winning pitcher Larry Demery made the first out.

Dodgers 8, Phillies 1

Ron Cey hit a three-run homer and Doug Rau knocked a three-hitter as the Dodgers huddled the Phillies into third place. Rau gave up a first-inning run on a double, single and an infield out and didn't allow another hit until Mike Schmidt singled in the seventh.

Mets 7, Padres 2

Rusty Staub's tie-breaking single triggered a three-run rally in the fifth inning and rookie Mike Vail added three hits for the Mets to support the nine-hit pitching of Randy Tate, another rookie. Felix Millan, Vail and Staub delivered consecutive hits to snap the deadlock.

Giants 4, Expos 3

Gary Thomasson's eighth-inning homer broke a 3-3 tie. Barry Foote homered for Montreal while San Francisco's Pete Falcone outdueled fellow rookie Dan Warthen in a pair of route-going performances.

Bjorn Borg U.S. champ

BROOKLINE, Mass. (AP) — Bjorn Borg, Sweden's 19-year-old tennis star, had two important dates marked on his calendar today as the U.S. Pro champion for the second year in a row. "First I'm going to Forest Hills for the U.S. Open and then home to Sweden to play in the Davis Cup match with Chile," Borg said Tuesday night after successfully defending his U.S. Pro title at Longwood.

Borg, winner of 12 straight matches on the clay courts here, retained the championship and collected another $16,000 by defeating close pal Guillermo Vilas of Argentina 6-3, 6-4, 6-2. Meanwhile, Ilie Nastase of Romania overwhelmed Bob Hewitt of South Africa 7-6, 6-1 Tuesday night in the final of the $50,000 Tennis Week Open in South Orange, N.J.

That match was halted for seven minutes when Hewitt sat down after the fourth game and refused to continue. Tournament referee Gus Lanna finally persuaded him that rain-dampened conditions weren't "dangerous and intolerable" as the South African contended and Hewitt resumed play.

Nastase later teamed with Jimmy Connors for a 6-2, 6-3 victory over Dick Crealy of Australia and John Lloyd of Great Britain in the doubles final.

MOTTO MAKER — Tracie Oesterle is congratulated by Blue Lion grid coach Maurice Pfeifer for her winning entry in the school's slogan contest for the 1975 football team. Tracie's entry, "True Blue", was one of 300 entries given by Washington C.H. students. Coach explained that several students turned in the "True Blue" slogan, but Tracie's reason made her a winner. She said "True Blue" stands for loyalty and it is important to be loyal to your team, your community, your family, and most importantly to yourself.

Battle of kickers seen by Bengals

WILMINGTON, Ohio (AP)—Professional football is beginning to sound a little like baseball. Thursday night's game between the Cincinnati Bengals and the Philadelphia Eagles is being billed as the "sidewinder versus the knuckler."

The "sidewinder" is former Bengals placekicker Horst Muhlmann, traded to the Eagles. The German soccer-style booter holds the Cincinnati all-time scoring record with 559 points.

"The knuckler," is Dave Green, a traditional American-style kicker from Athens, Ohio.

Muhlmann's kickoffs rotate on an angle and traditionally land deep in the end zone.

Green has developed something called "the hard to handle kick."

"It's not a pretty kick," said Green, a converted punter who got Muhlmann's assignment after the trade.

"It's almost a knuckler" similar to a baseball pitched with the knuckles instead of the fingers. The ball spins very little in flight and tends to waver.

"I try to kick it over somebody's head. It bounces funny making the other team late in starting their runback. It also gives us a chance to recover the ball."

6000 SOUTH HIGH STREET, COLUMBUS, OHIO

Sports Mart

By PHIL LEWIS

With kickoff time for the 1975 high school football season ten days away and counting the eight members of the South Central Ohio League are hurriedly preparing for next Friday's season opener.

Two more SCOL head coaches, Mike Shoemaker of Unioto and Ron Wilt of Wilmington, are hanging the "teams to beat" tag on Washington C.H., Miami Trace and Circleville. Several coaches have pegged Greenfield as the league dark horse and after Saturday's McClain scrimmage with Blanchester the Tigers don't look so dark.

Circleville and Wilmington also fared well in the first allowed interscholastic scrimmages last Saturday.

GREENFIELD McCLAIN ran all over Blanchester with the final score of the scrimmage posted at 33-6. The first team Tigers scored easily in the first quarter scoring touchdowns the first three times they received the ball.

The McClain defense held the opposition to four first downs with one of those coming on a penalty. Blanchester managed 193 total yard in the scrimmage with all of the yardage coming on the ground. Passing wise Blanchester tossed five aerials with all but one hitting the ground incomplete and it was picked off by Tiger defender Don Watts.

McClain coach Fred Brisker said he was pleased with his team's performance, but there are some defensive problems is worried about.

While Blanchester's Jack O'Rourke said his team looked bad passing, running and on defense. "It's the worst we've looked since I've been coaching here," he said.

CIRCLEVILLE also came up a winner during Saturday's action. Both teams scored three touchdowns, but the Tigers pushed across the two point conversion for a somewhat hollow "win" over Groveport.

However, all three of Groveport's scores came against Circleville's second and third team defenses.

The Tigers scored on a 62-yard run by Frank Merrill and two 15-yard gallops by Greg Berrigan and Joe Leahy.

Coach Larry Cook was pleased with his offense especially the line's blocking against "the strong multiple defense of Groveport."

Circleville will hold its second scrimmage tonight against Dayton Franklin at the Tiger's field.

WILMINGTON and Fairborn-Baker held each other to a single touchdown Saturday, but coach Ron Wilt was pleased with his offense except for the passing game.

One big bright spot emerged for the

Hurricanes as second string fullback Gary Losey rushed for over 100 yards and made five unassisted tackles from his linebacker position in what Wilt termed the "most outstanding performance in the scrimmage."

Losey, 180-pounder, was replacing lettermen Russell Crosthwaite at running back. The 6'2", 215-pound Crosthwaite is setting out with an injury.

Quarterback Duane Early scored the Hurricanes only touchdown with two-yard run.

Wilt said his team isn't as far along as last year, because the coaching staff is looking at so many new faces and bringing the squad along more slowly than last year.

Wilmington will be trying to improve on last year's 5-5 mark when they open the season against Xenia next Friday.

THE MIAMI TRACE cheerleaders and athletes will be canvassing the county tonight hoping to sign up new Booster Club members.

The sign-up drive will begin at 5:30 p.m. and club memberships are $2.

NOT ONLY WILL fans get a free poster of Tony Perez Sunday if they attend the Cardinal-Reds game at Riverfront, but if they stick around for Monday's Labor Day contest with the San Diego Padres they will get to see and hear the Duke Ellington Band.

It's all part of the Big Band-Big Red Machine doubleheader starting at 6 p.m.

The band is under the direction of Mercer Ellington (the late Duke's son) and Anita Moore is the featured vocalist.

The Reds-Padres game will get under way one hour later beginning a week of baseball that will feature the Dodgers Giants and the Padres.

Stan Smith makes comeback attempt

FOREST HILLS, N.Y. (AP) — Stan Smith, the fair-haired American of international tennis in the late 1960s and early 70s, will attempt a comeback in the U.S. Open Championships tonight when he takes on Onny Parun of New Zealand.

It will mark the first under-the-lights match in the 94-year history of the tournament.

Smith, 28, winner at Forest Hills in 1969 and 1971, probably will welcome the illumination in the 15,500-seat stadium at the West Side Tennis Club. In 1973, he lost a semifinals heart-breaker to Jan Kodes of Czechoslovakia as daylight faded into dusk.

NFL contract talks deadlock

By ARTHUR H. ROTSTEIN
Associated Press Writer
CHICAGO (AP) — The Rozelle Rule has done it again.

It's put National Football League contract negotiations right back where they were. Nowhere.

The controversial rule proved the villain once more Tuesday, as representatives of the National Football League Players Association and NFL Management Council broke off negotiations after reaching an impasse on resolving their differences on the regulation.

Federal mediator James F. Searce said no progress was reached in the talks held Monday and Tuesday, despite a glint of movement earlier.

Talks between the two sides over option compensation as well as other issues barring agreement on a contract have carried on fruitlessly for more than a year.

Before last Friday, the players' group had refused to negotiate the Rozelle Rule before a court ruling on their suit challenging its legality.

The rule specifies that the original team owning a player who has played out his option year and signed with another must be adequately compensated. The compensation is determined by NFL Commissioner Pete Rozelle if the two teams cannot reach a settlement themselves.

Management has insisted that the rule must be negotiated before any contract is agreed upon.

The Chicago meeting came after NFLPA Executive Director Ed Garvey said the players would be willing to discuss a modification of the rule.

"I'm afraid we ran into some of the same old problems we had," said Searce. He characterized the Rozelle Rule as again "the key" hangup in the discussions.

"I don't want to cast a pall (on the situation)," he said, but he wasn't optimistic. In response to a question, he said, "Yeah, they (the talks) are at about the same place" as before the Chicago meeting. Monday night's talks, he said, "gave us some hope for some movement but it just didn't work out this way."

Searce, deputy director of the Federal Mediation and Conciliation

Service, said the talks have been broken off subject to call, but that he won't set up another meeting "until there's some evidence that we've got some place to go."

Both sides have been asked "to examine their positions," and "to see if they can come up with some other approaches," he said.

He would not define what other approaches he sought.

But he added, "We're gonna keep trying and we're looking."

Earlier, Wellington Mara of the New

York Giants, chairman of the management council, said in a statement: "The union reverted to its original position of March 1974 when it told us that it objected to any restraints on player movement. Obviously we regarded this as a most serious development."

He had called Monday's meeting "very beneficial."

A court verdict on the Rozelle Rule is possible later this year in a Minneapolis federal court, but Garvey said he thought the lawsuit could be settled.

2 Ohio State grid players ruled out

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Physical examinations were given to 108 Ohio State University football players before practice started Monday.

Linebacker Charles Simon and junior defensive end Don Coburn were ruled out for the season because of injuries, the team physician said.

Speaking of Your Health...

Lester L. Coleman, M.D.

The Burden of Excess Weight

Why do intelligent people simply refuse to admit that 65 extra pounds is a dangerous burden to their hearts? My husband is one of those who can't be convinced.

Mrs. T.H., Ark.

Dear Mrs. H.: A psychiatrist may entertain the complex reason of the death wish to explain such problems. Perhaps it does exist, yet I am more convinced that there are even intelligent people who refuse to recognize the extra load those 65 pounds are putting on their hearts.

It takes no particular brilliance to appreciate the fact that pounds of fat around the heart, blood vessels, liver and lungs do an injustice to the wonderful functioning of these organs.

Doctors are amazed that patients who cannot give up tobacco, excess alcohol and who cannot learn to modify emotional stress find they can do so after they have had their first heart attack.

Hard driving, unreasonable people seem to be miraculously converted into angels once they have been stricken by coronary heart disease.

They quickly learn that they are expendable in their businesses and that tobacco, alcohol and dietary excesses can be controlled.

Perhaps the psychiatrist is correct when he speaks about the death wish and that people tempt their fates, tottering on the brink of destruction before readjusting their patterns of living.

It falls within the province of the physician to bring a greater awareness to people like your husband of the need for re-evaluation of his total health picture.

Is it possible to see a piece of glass in the stomach? I think I may have swallowed it.

Miss R.E., R.I.

Dear Miss E.: Only certain types of glass can be seen by X-ray. Glass that has lead in it, or other chemicals that give it opacity, can be seen.

SPEAKING OF YOUR HEALTH... The dinner table should be a good setting for relaxation. Eating periods should be free of emotional tension.

Jack Douglas Finds Humor Even In Hotel Business Misadventure

By CHRIS CONKLING
NEW YORK (AP) — Comedy, says funnyman Jack Douglas, is protest.

"What else is it?" the humorist asked in an interview. "It's a complaint told in a funny way. Mark Twain once explained humor as the difference between the right word and the wrong word. To me it's the difference between lightning and the lightning bug."

Douglas began complaining in the late 1930s through the mouths of Bob Hope, Groucho Marx, Red Skelton and other top bananas of the time. He wrote many of their monologues. Through the years he has created barbs for Johnny Carson, Woody Allen, Garry Moore, Danny Thomas and Jimmy Durante. Television viewers will remember him as Jack Parr's early late-night sidekick.

Douglas says he "protests about almost everything." At the moment, he's griping about some people he got to know while living in Maine. Two years ago, he and his Japanese wife, Reiko, and their two young sons bought a hotel in the Rangeley Lakes section of the Pine Tree State, intending to convert it into a home.

As Douglas explains it, after taking title to the deed, they learned they would have to run the resort complex as a hotel and that the people of the community depended on the hotel's financial failure as a primary source of income. The Douglases also learned that the hotel had had six owners in as many years and that, as Douglas says, "It was fixed to self-destruction."

While Douglas aims at laughter in a book he has just written about his hotel misadventure, "Benedict Arnold Slept Here," he himself is not amused. He has initiated several law suits in the matter.

Hotel owning is only the latest of Douglas' professions. He was born in Tahiti, the son of a cable engineer, and began his professional life at age 14 playing drums in a band. He soon dropped his drumsticks for a pair of boxing gloves but before he sprouted cauliflower ears, he turned to writing comedy. He became a monologist and remembers playing Liverpool, England, where he found that his mettle wasn't strong enough for British audiences.

"I worked there in vaudeville for a couple of years," he relates. "Liverpool audiences are the toughest in the world. The theater I played in had a steel balcony in front of the stage, and if the audience didn't like your act, they'd throw nuts and bolts at you. It got so I started dreaming of rotten tomatoes and old eggs."

Douglas says he wants to be known as a humorist. "What irritates me is when people call me a 'gag man.' You're a gag man when you write for a dollar a joke. I've done that, but it was a long time ago."

He never finished high school, but he has a lifetime contract to teach comedy writing at the University of Maine. "When we were living in Maine," he explains, "I taught one semester on the 'Craft of Comedy' and the university president sent me a contract for life. I taught students how to write for laughs, which is kind of a laugh itself since I don't think writing can be taught. The only way to learn how to write is to write."

His first writing job was on Bob Hope's radio show in 1939. "He paid me 50 bucks a week," Douglas recalls. "I was afraid to write for myself until I did the standup comic routine on the nightclub circuit in the '50s."

"I never did like working nightclubs. You have to sleep late because you work late. And you really can't enjoy the daytime. You can go to a movie in the afternoon but you can't concentrate on the film because you're thinking about the show that night."

Cincinnati policeman shot down

CINCINNATI, Ohio (AP) — A nine-year veteran policeman was shot to death late Tuesday night when he attempted to stop a man firing shots into the air from the street in front of a bar.

Dead was Specialist William Loftin, 36, a member of the vice squad and former narcotics agent.

Police Chief Carl Goodin said charges would be filed later today against a 52-year-old Cincinnati man, who is in hospital custody following surgery for wounds believed received during an exchange with Loftin's partner.

Loftin, who was under consideration for a commendation following an unsuccessful attempt to save a drowning girl, was "working the bars in Avondale," at the time of the shooting, according to Goodin.

Loftin was the third Cincinnati officer killed in a little more than year and the second black killed in the history of the department, Goodin said.

Homicide Lt. Daniel Cash indicated more arrests might follow. He said "about 20 witnesses are being questioned."

Both Cash and Goodin denied the shooting was connected with a homicide in the neighborhood earlier in the evening.

Michael Crowder, 21, of Cincinnati, was shot to death in a service station less than 200 feet from the bar. Two assailants escaped.

Cash said Loftin and his partner, Claude Dell, were in casual clothing looking for liquor, prostitution and narcotic offenses in the area.

The 20th century began on Jan. 1, 1901.

Woman in 'fair' condition after accidental shooting

A Washington C.H. woman is presently listed in fair condition at Fayette Memorial Hospital after sustaining an accidental gunshot wound to her left chest.

Washington C.H. police reported Rosalie Watkins, 52, of 745 Dayton Ave., removed a loaded pistol from the trunk of her car at 10:15 a.m. Tuesday and carried it toward her garage. When she stooped to move a saw-horse which was in her path the gun discharged accidentally propelling the bullet through the left side of her chest at a downward angle where it lodged in her lower back, police reported.

Police reported a second personal injury today and an attempted burglary. Fayette County Sheriff's deputies reported a motorcycle theft.

Ten-month-old Michelle Stump, Nevada, Mo., was injured when she fell from a shopping cart at Kroger's, Clinton Avenue, at 6:50 p.m. Tuesday. Police said the girl was taken to Fayette Memorial Hospital where she was treated and released.

'Library' of gerbils readied

DAYTON, Ohio (AP) — Shoup Mill life science classes will have access to a critter library this fall — and parents may find themselves playing host to gerbils their youngsters have checked out.

Shoup Mill life science teacher Howard Henry, 49, says he has 50 gerbils which will be loaned to any of his students who want them for a short time this fall.

"Gerbils are odorless and they practically never bite," Henry said. "They are inquisitive and fun."

When a student borrows a gerbil, the animal comes complete with a cage, a supply of food, a water bottle and special instructions for care waiting to go home with a youngster.

Henry, who has to share the tiny, soft, brown animals with 1,500 students, said he will have to work out the special

Redman plant hit by strike

Members of Local No. 768, International Union of Electrical Workers, went out on strike against Redman Industries, Inc., mobile home plant, 2000 Kinskill Ave., in the Washington C.H. Industrial Park, when their contract expired at midnight Tuesday, halting production at the plant.

The union, representing 57 plant construction and maintenance workers, established pickets at all plant entrances shortly after midnight.

The Washington C.H. plant parking lot was nearly empty Wednesday morning except for cars belonging to supervisory personnel.

Enos Smith, president of Local No. 768, said from his Dayton office that the main issues in the strike were the company's method of payment, dissatisfaction with the incentive system, and the company police of selective vacations. Smith said other minor fringe benefits were also being negotiated.

Smith said he had contacted federal mediators in Columbus but had been unsuccessful in arranging a meeting with the company.

Smith would not comment further on the issues in the strike until a meeting had been held with members of Local No. 768.

Rene Clos, manager of the Washington C.H. mobile homes plant, could not be reached for comment on the situation.

Haile Selassie dead at 83

ADDIS ABABA, Ethiopia (AP) — Haile Selassie, the diminutive strong man who ruled Ethiopia as the "King of Kings" for 48 years before he was deposed by the military last September, died today. He was 83.

The government said the former monarch was found dead in his bed by a servant early this morning.

In Washington, intelligence sources said an Addis Ababa radio broadcast reported that Selassie died as a result of illness affecting his prostate gland. Last May, Selassie was reported seriously ill with a prostate condition. The sources said the broadcast gave no further details.

The State Department had no immediate comment.

Since he was deposed last Sept. 12 Selassie had been confined in one of his former palaces in the Ethiopian capital, and access to him had been denied to outsiders.

Medical reports following his operation said he was making a normal recovery. But then there was no further word on his condition.

Today's broadcast said that following a deterioration Tuesday, Selassie's only surviving daughter, Princess TenagneWork, had been permitted to visit him.

But there was apparently no fear his death was imminent, and the former absolute monarch of 27 million people died alone.

Taking the throne in 1928 when he was 36, he ruled for 41 of the next 46 years.

Mussolini's invading army drove him into exile in 1936. The British army brought him back to his throne in 1941 and he kept it until a slow-motion military coup culminated in his arrest last Sept. 12.

The bearded little old man was held in an apartment at the Grand Palace, his former stronghold on a hilltop overlooking Addis Ababa and now the headquarters of the military regime that overthrew him.

Last February he was reported in good health but subject to periods of mental confusion when he seemed to believe he was still on the throne.

In March, the leftist military government abolished the 3,000-year-old monarchy.

On May 23 the official Ethiopian radio announced that Haile Selassie was seriously ill and might need prostate surgery. That was the last word of him until the announcement today of his death.

Known as the Conquering Lion of Judah, Elect of God and King of Kings, the emperor began his long reign as a reformer. He built schools, roads and hospitals in a land where public hangings and slavery had been common and where landlords kept private armies.

But age and tradition prevented the emperor from keeping pace with Ethiopia's intellectuals and technocrats. The country, whose proudest boast was that it never had been colonized, stayed behind when newly independent Africa began modernizing itself in the 1960s.

Ironically, Selassie himself ordered the changes that eventually led to his downfall — the military training programs that exposed Ethiopian officers to democracy in the United States, and Haile Selassie University, where students learned to think in revolutionary terms.

Drought had taken more than 100,000 lives in Ethiopia by February 1974, when the armed forces mutinied for pay raises and then began nibbling away at the emperor's power and public support.

Though slightly built and barely 5 feet 2, the descendant of King Solomon and the Queen of Sheba, was an iron man who always used stern methods to suppress his enemies. Lij Yasu, the emperor from whom he seized the throne in 1928, was kept in chains for 19 years until he died.

Selassie was born Prince Tafari Makonnen on July 23, 1892, a member of the Ethiopian royal family but not in the direct line of succession to the throne. With the support of tribal barons he had himself proclaimed king in 1928 when there was friction between opposing factions of the royal family.

'Nuances' remain to be resolved

Middle East peace pact nearly ready

ALEXANDRIA, Egypt (AP) — Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger says only "nuances" remain to be resolved in a new Israeli-Egyptian agreement providing for another Israeli pullback in the Sinai Desert.

Israeli officials in Jerusalem said today a key part of the pact already is complete and ready for signing. They said the completed section obliged both sides to refrain from "the use or threat of force" and was to be signed directly between Israel and Egypt.

Kissinger reported "remarkable progress" in the negotiations after his arrival from Israel late Tuesday afternoon to confer with President Anwar Sadat.

The Israeli officials said the completed portion — one of three sections in the pact — also specified permission for Israeli cargo to move through the Suez Canal and included an appendix of maps and timetables for territorial changes. They declined to say when it might be signed, but all indications were that it would be wrapped up before the end of the week.

Sadat said after greeting Kissinger that the agreement "is not only good for Egypt and for the Arab world, but it is for the sake of peace . . . for the Arabs and the Israelis.

"If this succeeds it will mean defusing of the situation," the Egyptian president declared.

Sadat repeatedly stressed the importance of peace. In reply to a newsman who noted that Egypt was also regaining territory, he said: "Territory? We shall be regaining our territory. But what we are after is peace."

However, a cautionary note came from Tahsen Bashir, a spokesman for Sadat, who said 10 per cent of the agreement was still to be worked out, and this should not be "lightly dismissed."

Diplomatic sources said the major problem still unresolved was the wording of the clauses covering Egyptian guarantees to limit economic and propaganda warfare against Israel, and the possible linking of the agreement to a similar agreement between Israel and Syria.

The sources added, however, that the pact would be of unlimited duration and would not depend on future Israeli concessions to Syria or Jordan.

Kissinger said that despite opposition from Senate Majority Leader Mike Mansfield, he believed the Ford Administration could get the approval of Congress to the stationing of about 200 American technicians at electronic surveillance posts in territory to be relinquished by Israel.

"We will consult very carefully with the Congress and our impression is that we can get it through after some serious debate," he said.

Under the agreement, Israel will pull back to the eastern foothills of the strategic Mitla and Gidi passes and will return the Abu Rudeis oilfields.

The passes will be in the new United Nations buffer zone, but Israel and the United States will man a surveillance post on the Egyptian side of the Gidi pass; Israel and Egypt will staff one on the Israeli side, and American personnel will operate four other electronic observation centers to give advance warning of any attack.

Egypt and Israel will pledge not to resort to "the use or threat of force" for a period of more than three years, and Egypt will curb economic, political and propaganda warfare against Israel.

Egypt will allow Israeli cargoes to pass through the Suez Canal, and the United States will guarantee economic and military aid for Israel.

For city's teachers

Pre-school workshop scheduled Thursday

Dr. William D. Hitt, director of the center for improved education at Battelle Institute, Columbus, will be the guest speaker at a pre-school workshop for teachers in the Washington C.H. School District on Thursday.

Dr. Hitt will be speaking to city school district teachers and administrators during the first general session at 9 a.m. Thursday in the Washington C.H. Middle School auditorium.

Workshops dealing with four topics will be offered to teachers beginning at 1:30 p.m. in the Middle School auditorium, according to Superintendent Edwin M. Nestor.

Dr. Hitt, who received a doctorate degree in psychology from Ohio State University in 1956, has been employed at Battelle Institute since 1957 and was chief of the behavioral sciences division for 10 years. Much of his work during this period was devoted to educational research, with special emphasis on educational management.

According to Dr. Hitt, the mission of Battelle's center for improved education is to assist school districts and colleges increase their effectiveness through the humanistic application of existing knowledge. The center is guided by a humanistic philosophy of education. Throughout this philosophy is the belief that the scientific dimension of education should be united with the human dimension to effect constructive change. The center provides services in educational planning and management, instructional development, and educational data systems.

Dr. Hitt is a humanistic psychologist. His major interest is in the application of humanistic psychology to educational change. He is interested in all aspects of educational change, including management, instruction and information systems.

Dr. Hitt's primary interest is in educational redesign. He believes that the key to success in educational redesign will be for members of the broad educational community to work cooperatively in applying a rational and systematic approach to planning and operating their educational system.

Including operating tax levy

Three new issues set for November ballot

Three new issues have been submitted to the Fayette County Board of Elections for placement on the November general election ballot.

Of primary importance to county voters will be the 5-mill additional operating levy requested by the Fayette Progressive School.

A .63-mill levy for the school was turned down by county residents last fall when all proposed levies were defeated. After trimming the expansion of services suggested last year and considering recent inflation, the school is seeking a .5-mill increase in revenue.

The money would be used to combat inflated prices of current programs and to provide funds for some moderate improvements.

If approved the levy would remain in effect for 10 years.

A repeated attempt to sell liquor by the glass in Perry Township will be accompanied on the ballot this fall by a requested renewal of the one-mill fire protection levy.

The township is seeking a five-year renewal of the levy which provides funds for firefighting equipment, alarm and communication systems as well as payment for part-time and volunteer firemen.

Township residents will again have the opportunity to approve or reject a proposal to allow the sale of liquor by the glass. "Dry" for many years, Perry Township residents have defeated the question for several consecutive years.

The question has been filed by Mr. and Mrs. William Haines, owners and operators of the Mini Bar, Ohio 41-S, near Greenfield.

FAIR ROYALTY — Tammy Walters, second from right, who served as queen of the 1975 Fayette County Fair, was named to new Ohio County and Independent Fair queen's court at the Ohio State Fair. Tammy, the daughter of Sonny

It will be mostly sunny over Ohio today with temperatures ranging from the upper 70s north to the mid 80s in the extreme south. Humidities will be generally more agreeable. Clear skies will bring comfortably cool weather tonight.

Temperatures will be on a rising trend Thursday with highs in the 80s. The sultry weather and thunderstorms of the last few days finally have given way to a drier air mass moving in from the northwest.

Temperatures were several degrees cooler over much of northern Ohio last night. At daybreak, most readings were in the 60s. The coolest section was in the northwest, where Toledo reported 55 degrees. In the southeast corner of the state it was still around 70.

The morning weather map showed a cold front across West Virginia and Kentucky.

Sale of WLW-C nearly finalized

CINCINNATI, Ohio (AP)—Avco Broadcasting Corp. and the Outlet Co., Providence, R. I., jointly announced the signing of a definitive purchase agreement covering the sale of Avco's station WLW-C in Columbus, Ohio.

An agreement in principle covering the sale to Outlet was previously announced.

Under terms of the agreement, Outlet would pay Avco approximately $16.1 million in cash. Completion of the transaction is subject to approval by the Federal Communications Commission.

Comprehensive energy bill in effect

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Ohio has a new energy agency with broad authority to launch the state on a course toward development of alternate fuel and conservation of existing resources.

Gov. James A. Rhodes signed legislation creating the agency Tuesday, but the line-item vetoed a section he said would have permitted it "to disregard the actions of any other state agency or local political subdivision."

The energy bill was the product of a last minute compromise between majority Democrats in the legislature and Rhodes who vetoed an earlier Democratic energy plan.

In addition to establishing an Energy Resource and Development Agency (ERDA), it provides a 30-year tax abatement as an incentive to attract a coveted $142.3 million federal coal gasification plant to Ohio.

The new state department can build power plants and coal conversion facilities, issue revenue bonds to finance energy development and aid industry in converting from gas to coal.

The section of the bill objectionable to Rhodes stated that "no public agency or political subdivision of this state may require any approval, consent, permit, certificate or other condition for the construction or initial operation of an Energy Resource and Development Facility." It allowed that the language is "notwithstanding any other provision" of state law.

Rhodes said, however, that it would have the effect of exempting ERDA from environmental regulations and local zoning ordinances.

"Although the energy crisis we are facing demands full and imaginative solutions by state government," Rhodes said, "I do not believe it is necessary to completely disregard and render null and void the important functions of local zoning ordinances and other permit responsibilities of public agencies."

The compromise with Democrats gave the governor authority to appoint all five of ERDA's voting members and he is expected to do so within 10 days. The legislature will appoint four ex-officio members to the agency's board of trustees.

The agency is expected to begin functioning promptly, but Rhodes aides say it will not be able to move quickly enough to stave off power shortages this winter.

The tax break for the Coalcon demonstration plant is an effort to give Ohio a competitive edge over five other midwestern and border states under consideration for the facility. Rhodes has been pushing for months to bring the plant to Ohio.

Rhodes also signed a bill creating an Ohio Land Use Review Committee to study land development, zoning and environmental and agricultural regulations.

The committee, which may be established immediately under the bill, is to submit a report and recommendations to the General Assembly by next June 30. It will consist of a gubernatorial appointee, seven senators and seven state representatives.

Also signed by the governor and effective immediately were bills to:

—Bring Ohio in compliance and allow participation in the 1974 federal National Health Planning and Resources Development Act, which replaced and updated a number of federal health plans that expired last year.

—Broaden legal requirements for individuals to report violent or unusual deaths to public officials and prohibit disturbance of such bodies.

Rhodes signed legislation effective Nov. 25:

—Prohibiting the assignment of a mortgage to be listed by the county recorder unless it contains the mailing address of the person to whom the note and mortgage have been sold or transferred.

—Requiring the health department to record marriage dissolutions in the same manner as divorces.

—Permitting state child care subsidies in some instances for relatives who remain home to look after a child.

—Requiring the state to pay a proportional cost of special elections if conducted simultaneous with local elections.

—Requiring the state to provide free office space in the Ohio Departments Building in Columbus for all recognized Ohio veterans organizations.

Stock list down again

NEW YORK (AP) — Prices declined slightly again in the stock market today amid continuing edginess over inflation and rising interest rates.

Trading was slow.

The 11:30 a.m. Dow Jones average of 30 industrials was off .86 at 802.25, and losers outnumbered gainers by about a 5-3 margin on the New York Stock Exchange.

The Dow dipped briefly below 800 early in the session. But at that point some bargain hunters moved in with the encouragement of the government's report that its index of leading economic indicators posted its fifth straight rise last month.

The index is designed to give advance signs of developing economic trends.

Commerce Secretary Rogers Morton, however, warned that the strong uptrend in the index might not continue.

The NYSE's composite index of all its listed common stocks slipped .12 to 44.59 in the first hour.

On the American Stock Exchange, the market value index was down .29 at 83.70.

Boy's heart outside body

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — Christopher and Teresa Wall should be depressed. Their newborn baby is not well, neither one has a job and their medical bills are high.

But they are happy because their son is alive despite the fact he was born with his heart outside his body, a defect doctors believe no other infant has ever survived.

"We're just going day by day," Mrs. Wall, 20, told reporters at Children's Hospital here Tuesday. "We're thanking God every day he's still alive. "He's looking more like a little boy now, without all his tubes and everything."

Christopher John Wall Jr., the first child of the Ft. Lauderdale, Fla., couple, lies on his back on an "infant warmer" in the hospital's intensive care unit, his condition critical but stable.

When he was born Aug. 10 at Garden State Community Hospital in nearby Marlton, N.J., doctors found that he had no sternum, the elastic cartilage that connects the front of the ribs.

The bulk of his heart protruded through his chest, with only the upper end remaining within the chest cavity. The condition is called ectopia cordis, and doctors say medical literature lists fewer than 200 previous cases.

The child was rushed to Children's Hospital, where in a four-hour operation Dr. Robert G. Ketrick and Dr. Naresh C. Saxena covered the exposed heart with a flap of skin. Christopher's heart can clearly be seen beating under its thin covering.

Ketrick said of the decision to leave the heart outside the body:

"The previous cases ended in failure because attempts were made to put the heart back in the chest cavity. This child probably did well because no final effort was made to put the heart back in the chest, but rather just to protect it."

The two doctors said more surgery will be necessary to correct another, less serious, heart defect, but both voiced cautious optimism about the infant's future.

They said eventually some effort may be made to put Christopher's heart back in his chest. Until then, some sort of shield will be fashioned to protect the exposed organ, they said.

Wall, 23, said he had no idea how he would pay the medical bills. He said he has applied for aid from New Jersey's Crippled Children's Fund.

Tuna fishermen's gripe

American tuna fishermen have a point in arguing that it is unfair that international regulations on tuna fishing are enforced against them alone. To the extent that this is true, they are justified in their complaint. If fishing vessels of other countries in the eight-nation group operating under the regulations are not being policed, the American fleet has a legitimate gripe.

Whether the projected U.S. fleet "parade" into the San Diego port is the most sensible means of complaining is another question. This is a costly gesture - costly for boat owners, canners or fishermen alike. There is not doubt, however, that this massing of vessels in the port will focus a lot of attention on the matter. This may lead to a solution of what does appear to be a severe handicap for American fishermen.

Under present circumstances, American boats report their positions daily to the U.S. Coast Guard, and are subject to heavy penalties for failure to comply with regulations. The American fleet's grievance is that foreign tuna boats escape similar regulation and thus fill their holds much more easily. There are recourses in the law. Our government can, if it chooses, impose embargoes against foreign-caught fish if the boats do not comply with regulations. Also, under such circumstances the regulations can be suspended. The government should pay attention to what the American tuna fishermen are saying. If their version of what is going on appears to be true, corrective action should be taken without delay.

CHILMARK, Mass. — It has been a good August on Martha's Vineyard. True, the thermometer at Alley's store in West Tisbury did reach 102 that appalling first weekend, giving the temporary impression that the Island had been moved to the Solomons. But since then, with the exception of a few misty days, the weather has cooperated and the beach has been spectacular. Above all, we have not been subjected to God's punishment for loose living: the Northeast. For the benefit of the uninitiated who have never survived a Northeast in flimsy, unheated summer housing, it is a baleful act of nature. For at least three days, and sometimes up to five, the rain pelts, the meadows turn into swamps (the clay pan in our area keeps the water from properly running into the soil), clothes turn soggy, and moss begins growing on people. Strong men have been weeping and the weak in heart head for the ferry.

Sturdier souls mobilize the children and head for the "Flying Horses" in Oak Bluffs — surely one of the last authentic merry-go-rounds in the country. A decade or more ago, I recall spending five hours there in loco parentis to about 15 kids from our place. I tried to renew my lost expertise on pin-ball machines, but inflation has hit everywhere since World War II: if you gave the machines the slightest help (say, by hitting the side with your fist), the "TILT" light went on. However, this year there has been no need for these therapeutic safaris; a little fog never keeps our crew off the beach.

A source of mild interest has been the movie "Jaws," which we watched there film last summer. If you had seen the film crew out pumping up the phony shark of Edgartown (with kids joyously exercising their rights under sea law by sailing Sunfish in the path of the cameras), it was hard to take the whole thing seriously. But our sense of duty prevailed and a delegation, including three of our resident movie critics noted for their acerbic wit, was dispatched to present a report. "A real shark and a number of plastic people," was the collective verdict. They also hoped that viewers throughout the nation would not get the notion that if you walked down the street at Edgartown, you would arrive at the Menemsha wharf — or that you could walk a few blocks to Gay Head. (Warning: both of these "walks" would be westward treks across the width of the Island, so bring a vehicle or a pair of hiking boots and a well-conditioned physique.)

I might add that, in view of the publicity about the scary scenes, we engaged in an immunization program instituted by a professor of medicine. This involved having shark steaks for dinner. (They are not openly advertised as shark steaks, but have a "nom de mer" borrowed from the Indians. For reasons to be explained, I have a mental block on this alias, but it was something like "Mickuki.") At the risk of losing readers who have a passion for shark steaks, I feel compelled to note that although they resemble swordfish somewhat, they taste like the cardboard in which frozen swordfish is wrapped. Yet the immunization seemed to work: at an allegedly horrendous point in the story, the junior critic yawned and inquired, "Can't we go home to bed?"

What aroused the most indignation about "Jaws" was its implication that the local officials were a collection of bungling clods. In fact, close, sustained reading of the police blotter — a feature in our distinguished weekly (twice weekly in the summer), "The Vineyard Gazette" — suggests that the island officials can easily hold their own with mainland sophisticates. In this connection, I can't resist extended quotation from the trial of one Greg Landers for "sleeping in public." Landers, an alleged "street priest," had been up the week before, fined $50 for trespass, and denounced all and sundry with prophetic vigor. This time he asked that decision be postponed.

Judge Walter Steele: "Request denied. We'll settle this matter this morning, monsignor. We've been looking into you. Just how long have you been posing as a clergyman, anyway?"

Landers: "Are you challenging my status as a priest?"

Judge: "You've been in court more than you've been on the street. Since you've been here you have been a pain in the neck to the police and the people of Martha's Vineyard." Landers then launched on a sad tale, concluding: "I am deeply traumatized. I don't like being arrested for sleeping in public... I'm a victim. I have been victimized." Judge Steele, unmoved: "You're going to be further victimized. I'm fining you $50 (or) you'll go to jail or take the first ferry off the Island."

Landers: "You can't kick me off the Island. You can't send me back to that insanity they call the mainland. My family goes back five generations here."

Judge: "I can't banish you... that would be unconstitutional. But our jailhouse here is at least five generations old, and it should suit you just fine." Now I ask you, friends, what court on the mainland features reprieve to match that? When "Jaws" featured the locals as yokels, it really missed the scene.

'Sunshine bill' foes unhappy

By ROBERT E. MILLER
Associated Press Writer
COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Two youthful members of the Ohio House, sons of fathers who once served as speakers of that chamber, voted "no" on the open meetings bill approved by the recently adjourned 111th General Assembly.

The two dissenters, among a handful of members voting in opposition, were Reps. Charles R. Saxbe, R-75 Mechanicsburg, and C. William O'Neill, R-28 Columbus.

Saxbe's father is U.S. Ambassador to India and a former U.S. Attorney General; O'Neill's father is Chief Justice of the Ohio Supreme Court.

Both young men said they favored the legislation in concept, but felt it was hurriedly written and, in effect, created more problems than it solved.

The younger O'Neill, whose father was speaker in 1947-1948 and governor from 1958-1960, said the open meetings measure was "a very simple bill on a very complex subject."

The 28-year-old Columbus attorney noted that as written the bill would enable an applicant for a professional license to sit in on a meeting of a state board that was making up questions for a qualifying examination.

"There are a lot of other things in the bill that we will have to come back later and clean up," he said.

Saxbe said he agreed generally with

O'Neill that the bill created problems, particularly with local governments where he felt it would invite "disruptive participation by those more interested in disrupting the governmental process than they are in having open meetings."

The freshman lawmaker, 27, also objected, he said, to the exclusion of the General Assembly from the bill's provisions.

Saxbe said he understood that the Ohio Constitution permits the legislature and its committees to go into executive session by a two-thirds vote of the their members, and that drafters of the bill felt they couldn't legally include the legislature.

Dear Abby:

ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

Boyfriend's kisses are not helping romance

DEAR ABBY: I'm going with a wonderful guy named Morris. He's a terrific fellow, but he has one fault. When he kisses me, he gets carried away and bites my lips. After an evening with Morris, my lips are bruised and raw-sometimes they even bleed!

My mother keeps asking me what's the matter with my lips, and I keep making up excuses. (They're "chapped.")

Will you please tell me how I can get Morris to take it easy when he kisses me? I have told him a dozen times not to be so rough, but he forgets. This is no put-on.

SORE LIPS

DEAR SORE: When Morris "forgets" and gets rough, give him a good look on the back to remind him to take it easy. And keep it up until he's conditioned.

DEAR ABBY: I'm a 34-year-old widow who fell in love with a married man. (I'll call him Rex.) He has two children. We've been seeing each other for 18 months, and I love him dearly. Rex says he loves me and needs me, and as soon as he's financially able to swing it, he'll divorce his wife and marry me.

Rex still lives with his wife, but claims that he has had nothing to do with her since he met me. Here is the part that just about drove me to suicide: He told me yesterday that his wife is now pregnant! He swears it isn't his, but how can I be sure?

I have an 8-year-old son who worships Rex, and if I were to break off with him, it would be almost as though my son were losing another father because Rex treats him like a son.

How much longer should I give Rex?

DEAR LOVES: The advice from here is say goodbye now and tell Rex that you don't want to see his face until he is a free man.

In the meantime, you'd better start planning your life without him because as I see it, that is what you will have to do eventually.

DEAR ABBY: This is for the man whose wife is driving him up the wall by her constant use of "you know" in every sentence.

Rejoice! At least "you know" implies that you can comprehend what is being said.

We have a brother who ends almost every sentence with "understand?" This leaves one with the feeling that his mental capacity to follow a simple conversation is somewhat in doubt.

Far better "you know" than "understand?"

HIS SISTER, UNDERSTAND?

DEAR SISTER: I understand, you know.

TV Viewing

By JAY SHARBUTT

AP Television Writer
NEW YORK (AP) — It's depressing to return to Fun City after a one-week, two-perch fishing vacation. It isn't hard to know you're back in Fun City. At dawn, you can hear the sparrows coughing.

This isn't much of a fishing town. Here, they think a HulaPopper is a Hawaiian hit man. But there's always TV, which reminds us that the new season is creeping up on us.

Serious creeping began Monday with a two-hour premiere of "Beacon Hill," the new CBS series that differs from "Upstairs, Downstairs" in that it wears 1920 Bostonians. Its normal run starts next Tuesday.

But for those who insist upon a regular-season starting date for new and returning series, we offer the following list as a public service, or disservice, depending on your point of view. The new series are marked by an x:

SUNDAY — NBC: Walt Disney (Sept. 14), Family Holvakx (Sept. 7), Sunday Mystery Movie (Sept. 14), CBS: Three for the Road (Sept. 14), Cher (Sept. 7), Kojak (Sept. 14), Bronx-x (Sept. 21), ABC: Swiss Family Robinson-x, Six Million Dollar Man, Sunday Night Movie (all Sept. 14).

MONDAY — NBC: The Invisible Man-x, Monday Movies (Sept. 8), CBS: Rhoda, Phyllisx, All in the Family, Maude, Medical Center (Sept. 8), ABC: Barbary Coast-x, NFL Football (Sept. 8).

TUESDAY — NBC: Movin' On, Police Story, Joe Forresterx (Sept. 9), CBS: Good Times, Joe and Sons-x, Switch-x (Sept. 9), Beacon Hill-x (Sept. 2), ABC: Happy Days, Welcome Back Kotter-x, Rookies, Marcus Welby (Sept. 9).

WEDNESDAY — NBC: Little House on the Prairie, Doctors' Hospital-x, Petrocelli (Sept. 10), CBS: Tony Orlando and Dawn, Cannon, Kate McShanex (Sept. 10), ABC: When Things Were Rotten-x, That's My Mama, Baretta, Starsky and Hutch-x (Sept. 10).

THURSDAY — NBC: The Montefuscos-x, Fay-x (Sept. 4), Ellery Queen (Sept. 11), Medical Story-x (Sept. 4), CBS: The Waltons, Thursday Night Movies (Sept. 11), ABC: Barney Miller, On the Rocks-x, Streets of San Francisco and Harry O (Sept. 11).

FRIDAY — NBC: Sanford and Son, Chico and the Man, Rockford Files, Police Woman (Sept. 12).

There's more to orange juice than vitamin C

Way back in the 1700's there wasn't as much information available as there is today on the importance of oranges in the diet. Now, modern day consumers know there's more to Florida OJ than just vitamin C.

In fact, orange juice is probably the most researched food in the country. At the University of Florida, this beverage is carefully studied and analyzed to determine its nutritive benefits. To date, research at the University has shown that OJ is a good source of folic acid, which prevents a nutritional deficiency anemia. Both pregnant and oral contraceptive-using women often develop this anemia.

And, OJ is low in sodium, important for those on low-sodium diets. Its high potassium content means that three 8-ounce glasses of OJ daily can effectively replace the bad tasting potassium supplement that many people on diuretics are required to take.

So, when you drink to your health, drink great tasting Florida OJ... it's more than just vitamin C.

Sport parachuting, skydiving Rotary Club's topic

Sport parachuting and skydiving was the topic at the regular weekly luncheon meeting of the Washington C.H. Rotary Club Tuesday in the Country Club.

Jack Fitzwater, of the Greene County Sport Parachute Center, near Xenia, briefly outlined the operation of the sport parachute center, which is located four miles east of Xenia off U.S. 35 on Monroe Siding Road.

A number of experienced parachutists provide complete instruction to students at the center, Fitzwater said. The center also has a large staff of experienced jump pilots.

Fitzwater, who has logged 1,500 jumps, told Rotary Club members the center near Xenia is one of the largest in the nation and more students (over 15,000) have been trained at the school near Xenia than any other in the country.

There are 30 master parachutists at the center with more than 1,000 jumps and one has over 5,000 jumps.

Four Cessna 180s provide jumping for students seven days a week. The center's senior pilot has logged over 5,000 hours flying time.

Students are required to complete a five-hour ground training course with a heavy emphasis on safety at the center before their first jump, Fitzwater said. The Federal Aviation Administration (FAA) has sanctioned the center.

Students as young as 16 years of age can participate with consent of their parents. The center also trained a 63-year-old man.

Fitzwater explained many of the facets of skydiving to Rotarians, including the competitive events which gauge a jumper's accuracy in attempting to land on a five-inch disc.

The expert skydivers are able to control their movement with special gear, he said.

Precision jumping, which includes as many as 35 skydivers forming a large star in midair by joining hands, freefall maneuvers and other highly-skilled techniques were explained briefly by Fitzwater.

Following his address to Rotarians, Fitzwater presented a color film which featured exciting aerial photography.

In the movie, cameras were attached to the jumpers' helmets.

The meeting was conducted by club president William E. Williams and Donald Murdock arranged the program.

During the meeting, Williams announced that the district governor will be making his official visit to the Washington C.H. next Tuesday.

The district governor will meet with all club officers and various committee chairman at 10 a.m. Tuesday in the Country Club.

Henry Sobicinski, plant manager of the Thatcher Plastics Co. in the Washington C.H. Industrial Park, was accepted as a new member. He was sponsored by John Lachat.

Visiting Rotarians were Jerry Ardrey of London and James Mossbarger of Greenfield. Guests were Dave McMillan with Lee Kraus and Dr. Kooi-Wham Chan.

Feeling tense and nervous? Count your pork and beans

PORTLAND, Ore. (AP) — An excellent way to cope with the frustrations and uncertainties of today's society is to count your beans before chewing them, says a friendly neighborhood philosopher.

Jerome Techtman, a welder, says: "For many years when I would become emotionally disturbed I would sit down, open and eat a little eight-ounce can of ... pork and beans.

"I would count as I ate, and through the years the number of beans in each can always varied between 325 and 340.

"My troubles would vanish and relief was immediate."

The 62-year-old ex-tavern owner is considered something of a philosopher around his neighborhood in north Portland and in the pipe shop where he works.

He has other remedies "to help make life worth living in a day when no one seems to believe in anything."

Flowers abound around his home, and 10 years ago he drilled a hole in the dining room wall "just to let the outside ivy in," he said.

It now grows on all walls and the ceiling of the room.

"That way, you don't have to paint the walls and ceiling," he said while munching his beans — 93, 94, 95 ...

Some things he has no remedy for, however.

"The other day I was going through my records and found that I used to buy those little cans of beans six for a quarter. The ones now on my shelf — I am never without them — are marked 17 cents each.

"And what's worse, each can now contains only about 186 beans, the rest is soup on top."

Grand jury to eye Hoffa case

DETROIT (AP) — A federal grand jury will hear from 70 witnesses beginning next Tuesday as prosecutors step up efforts to learn the fate of former Teamsters union president Jimmy Hoffa.

Among the early witnesses will be Hoffa's foster son, Charles L. "Chuckie" O'Brien, a union organizer whom sources describe as a key figure in the probe of Hoffa's mysterious disappearance July 30.

U.S. Atty. Ralph Guy said Tuesday his office has no information about Hoffa not already gathered by the FBI during a three-week nationwide hunt for the 62-year-old ex-union boss.

"The grand jury is not receiving evidence for indictments," Guy said. "It is wearing its investigative hat. We hope evidence generated by this jury together with what investigators have will provide additional leads."

Hoffa vanished without a trace after leaving his home, reportedly for a scheduled meeting at a fashionable suburban restaurant with Detroit Mafia figure Anthony "Tony Jack" Giacalone.

Robert Ozer, who heads the U.S. Attorney's Organized Crime Strike Force here, revealed at a court hearing Tuesday that the government plans to call 70 witnesses before the jury.

Ozer would not disclose the names of others the government would call, but he said no members of Hoffa's immediate family had been subpoenaed.

However, sources close to the investigation say Giacalone is among those subpoenaed. Giacalone has denied he arranged to meet Hoffa on the day Hoffa vanished.

It is believed subpoenas also have been issued to other Hoffa friends and business associates, several underworld figures and persons who saw him just before he disappeared.

Ozer appeared before U.S. District Judge Fred Kaess to respond to a request by O'Brien's attorney for a two-day delay in a scheduled Sept. 2 jury appearance because O'Brien is moving his family from Arkansas to Florida. Kaess ordered a one-day delay.

During the hearing, Ozer said O'Brien, who was questioned for more than eight hours by FBI agents over the past two weeks, "has raised many more questions than he has answered."

O'Brien reportedly told the FBI that he was driving in the area where Hoffa disappeared at about the time Hoffa was last seen. O'Brien reportedly said it was a coincidence.

He has declined to take a polygraph test to support his account.

One source said investigators are operating on the theory that Hoffa was ordered kidnaped and killed by individuals high in the Mafia because his attempt to regain union power threatened their interests.

In auto theft trial

Not guilty verdict returned by jurors

Lack of an eye-witness for the state placed sufficient doubts in the minds of a Fayette County Common Pleas court jury to bring a not guilty verdict for a Columbus man charged with auto theft.

Although assistant Fayette County prosecuting attorney John H. Roszmann presented several pieces of circumstantial evidence against David T. Richardson, 21, Columbus, no one was able to identify the defendant as the driver of an automobile stolen from a Temple Street residence last April.

The only witness for the state who actually saw the driver was Fayette County Sheriff's Deputy Charles Wise who spotted the stolen car on U.S. 22-E and Hess Road, but could say only that the driver had medium-length blonde hair.

The blue Corvette sped down Hess Road, and Wise alertly backed off as the vehicle approached a sharp turn. The car spun out of control, but the driver fled the scene before the deputy could see him.

The prosecution rested its case on the discovery of a tennis shoe found in a field to the left of the accident site. It was a twin for the shoe Richardson was wearing when he was arrested shortly after the incident.

Deputies testified that the defendant was wearing bib overalls, a blue shirt and one tennis shoe when arrested. The shoe in the field was a mate for the one he was wearing. Officers also found blue thread on a barbed wire fence separating the field from the roadway, but by the time it was found, the defendant had been released on bond and it could not be compared to Richardson's shirt.

Defense counselor Ralph Thomen of Columbus argued that the evidence was not sufficient to warrant a conviction. He pointed out that a check of the wrecked vehicle had produced no fingerprints matching those of the defendant. Tennis shoes, he contended, are commonplace and did not prove the defendant was at the scene.

The vehicle belonged to James H. Comstock of Newark, who was visiting Washington C.H. at the time of the theft. He had reported it stolen just prior to the time Wise sighted the auto.

After two days of testimony, the jury began its deliberations Tuesday afternoon and returned its verdict just after 4 p.m.

Seated on the jury were Gary Hidy, foreman, Jack White, Frances Allen, Margaret Engle, Carl Steinhäuser, Rebecca Sollars, Paul Sherrett, Connie Brown, Sandy Pope, Marcia Clark, Gloria Neiswenter and Terry Trimmer. Doris Wipert, the alternate juror, was not called upon to deliberate.

Defendant pleads guilty in Highland murder case

HILLSBORO — Following a day and a half of proceedings in Highland County Common Pleas Court, the murder trial of a Greenfield man came to an end at noon Tuesday as the defendant pleaded guilty to a lesser charge.

Arthur (Sonny) Jenkins, 24, of Greenfield, pleaded guilty to a charge of involuntary manslaughter. This was reduced from the original murder charge through plea bargaining by attorneys.

In accepting the plea, Judge Darrell Hottle commented, "The evidence thus far would not sustain the charge of murder."

Jenkins pleaded guilty to causing the death of James Coe, 79, also of Greenfield, on April 17. Judge Hottle immediately sentenced Jenkins to a term of five to 25 years in the Ohio State Reformatory.

Jenkins was one of two men implicated in Coe's death. The other man, Donald Pryor, 35, of Greenfield, is scheduled to go on trial September 8.

A jury had been seated in the case Monday and had visited the crime scene. Five witnesses for the state had been called before the plea bargaining.

Coe was reportedly beaten to death in an altercation between him and the two defendants. He died three hours later in the emergency room of Greenfield Municipal Hospital.

Disaster aid eyed for Cleveland

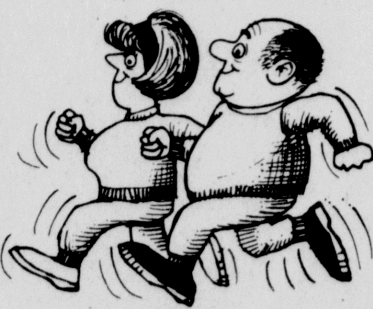

CLEVELAND, Ohio (AP)— This storm-damaged city has convinced state officials to ask the federal government for disaster relief aid although the city's chances to receive the aid have been termed "borderline."

Even while state, federal and city officials toured areas damaged by the Sunday storm, a second storm swept through the area Tuesday, causing power outages, a street collapse and traffic disruptions.

No serious injuries were reported in contrast to Sunday's storm when four persons died.

Frank Ruvio Jr., acting director of the Ohio Disaster Services Agency, recommended Cleveland for financial assistance and added the city's case was "borderline."

Reds high despite big lead

Ninth inning hit edges Cubs

CHICAGO (AP) — If the Cincinnati Reds are having difficulty maintaining their enthusiasm because of their tremendous lead in the National League West, it wasn't evident Tuesday.

Trailing 5-4 in the ninth after the first two batters struck out looking at Steve Stone's curves and a 1-2 count on pinch batter Terry Crowley, the Reds stunned the Chicago Cubs with two hard-earned runs for a 6-5 victory.

Crowley kept things alive with a single, Pete Rose walked, Ken Griffey beat out his specialty—an infield hit—and Joe Morgan singled off first baseman Andy Thornton's glove to send across the tying and winning runs.

Why didn't the Reds just forget about what has to be another meaningless game?

"We hadn't been playing well before we got here," said Manager Sparky Anderson. "We weren't generating anything. We weren't enthusiastic."

"It's hard to retain your motivation when you have the lead we have but I think the guys just kicked themselves and decided to go out and win it."

"The one thing I don't want them to start doing is marking time," said Anderson. "And it is tough to avoid under the circumstances. I guess I get a little greedy at times and expect them to win 'em all. But one thing I've never seen these guys do is go out and give the people a bad show."

The Cubs jumped off to a 4-0 lead in the first inning on a three-run homer by Jerry Morales followed by a solo shot by Thornton. They added another in the fifth on a walk, a double by Bill Madlock and an infield out.

Tony Perez singled in a pair of unearned runs in the Cincinnati third. Morgan tripled and scored on Perez' sacrifice fly in the sixth before Johnny Bench belted his 25th homer. Then came the winning rally in the ninth.

"The whole idea was that we wanted to come back and beat them," said Bench. "The Cubs aren't keyed up like the Pirates and Cardinals were. Those teams are in the pennant race."

There was some question about Morgan's hit which rolled foul after Thornton made a diving block of the ball as pinch runner Dave Concepcion scored the tying run from third and the ever hustling Rose scored all the way from second.

"I hit the ball good," said Morgan whose game-winning hit gave him 13 for the season and broke him out of a three-way tie with Perez and Rose in that department. "The ball was bending away from him and was just fair. With a lot of first basemen in this league it would have gone down the line for a triple."

A funny thing happened to the St. Louis Cardinals Tuesday night ... for the second night in a row.

Monday night, the Cards trailed Houston by a run with two out in the bottom of the 11th but salvaged a tie when the skies opened and rained the game out.

It was rescheduled as part of a two-nighter Tuesday. St. Louis trailed the Astros 8-1 after 6½ innings in the opener but rallied with six runs in the seventh and pulled it out 10-9 on Reggie Smith's run-scoring single in the 12th.

The nightcap was a more-or-less routine 2-1 triumph for the Redbirds and the sweep lifted them into second place in the National League's East Division, three games behind the Pittsburgh Pirates, who whipped Atlanta 8-2, and one game ahead of the Philadelphia Phillies, who bowed to Los Angeles 8-1.

Elsewhere, the New York Mets downed the San Diego Padres 7-2, the Cincinnati Reds edged the Chicago Cubs 6-5 and the San Francisco Giants nipped the Montreal Expos 4-3.

Houston raked four St. Louis pitchers for 20 hits in the opener — none of them a home run by Cliff Johnson — but the Cards bounced back in the seventh, sparked by Hector Cruz' bases-loaded triple. Mike Tyson's two-out single in the eighth sent the contest into overtime and Smith's single won it in the 12th after Bake McBride's single, a sacrifice and an intentional walk to Ted Simmons.

Ron Fairly's homer and Harry Rasmussen's RBI single and five-hit pitching paced St. Louis in the nightcap.

Pirates 8, Braves 2

Duffy Dyer's two-run single capped a six-run first inning in which the first eight Pittsburgh batters hit safely against Jamie Easterly and Ray Sadecki. Frank Taveras' triple and singles by Rennie Stennett, Al Oliver, Willie Stargell and Richie Zisk chased Easterly. Dave Parker, Richie Hebner and Duffy Dyer also singled — Dyer driving in two runs — before winning pitcher Larry Demery made the first out.

Dodgers 8, Phillies 1

Ron Cey hit a three-run homer and Doug Rau hurled a three-hitter as the Dodgers knocked the Phillies into third place. Rau gave up a first-inning run on a double, single and an infield out and didn't allow another hit until Mike Schmidt singled in the seventh.

Mets 2, Padres 2

Rusty Staub's tie-breaking single triggered a three-run rally in the fifth inning and rookie Mike Vail added three hits for the Mets to support the nine-hit pitching of Randy Tate, another rookie. Felix Millan, Vail and Staub delivered consecutive hits to snap the deadlock.

Giants 4, Expos 3

Gary Thomasson's eighth-inning homer broke a 3-3 tie. Barry Foote homered for Montreal while San Francisco's Pete Falcone outdueled fellow rookie Dan Warthen in a pair of route-going performances.

Bjorn Borg U.S. champ

BROOKLINE, Mass. (AP) — Bjorn Borg, Sweden's 19-year-old tennis star, had two important dates marked on his calendar today as the U.S. Pro champion for the second year in a row.

"First I'm going to Forest Hills for the U.S. Open and then home to Sweden to play in the Davis Cup match with Chile," Borg said Tuesday night after successfully defending his U.S. Pro title at Longwood.

Borg, winner of 12 straight matches on the clay courts here, retained the championship and collected another $16,000 by defeating close pal Guillermo Vilas of Argentina 6-3, 6-4, 6-2.

Meanwhile, Ilie Nastase of Romania overwhelmed Bob Hewitt of South Africa 7-6, 6-1 Tuesday night in the final of the $50,000 Tennis Week Open in South Orange, N.J.

That match was halted for seven minutes when Hewitt sat down after the fourth game and refused to continue. Tournament referee Gus Lanna finally persuaded him that rain-dampened conditions weren't "dangerous and intolerable" as the South African contended and Hewitt resumed play.

Nastase later teamed with Jimmy Connors for a 6-2, 6-3 victory over Dick Crealy of Australia and John Lloyd of Great Britain in the doubles final.

Colonial Stair takes K of C softball title

The Colonial Stair softball team won the annual K. of C. tournament at Circleville last weekend.

The team went undefeated through five tourney games to bring home the top trophy.

The tourney champs beat Hallers and Ponderosa both from Chillicothe in the first games before topping Lowes from Circleville and Giovanni's from Chillicothe.

Colonial topped Giovanni's, 4-2, in the tourney's final game.

Dennis Holloway was the team's leading hitter with .647 while Flea Merriman and Keith Guthrie hit .612. Steve Sword, Randy Merriman and Steve Dawson all hit over .500 for the tourney.

Flea Merriman also hit three home runs for the tourney champs. The five wins upped Colonial Stairs' season record to 68-27.

MOTTO MAKER — Tracie Oesterle is congratulated by Blue Lion grid coach Maurice Pfeiffer for her winning entry in the school's slogan contest for the 1975 football team. Tracie's entry, "True Blue", was one of 300 entries given by Washington C.H. students. Coach explained that several students turned in the "True Blue" slogan, but Tracie's reason made her a winner. She said "True Blue" stands for loyalty and it is important to be loyal to your team, your community, your family, and most importantly to yourself.

Battle of kickers seen by Bengals

WILMINGTON, Ohio (AP)— Professional football is beginning to sound a little like baseball. Thursday night's game between the Cincinnati Bengals and the Philadelphia Eagles is being billed as the "sidewinder versus the knuckler."

The "sidewinder" is former Bengals placekicker Horst Muhlmann, traded to the Eagles. The German soccer-style booter holds the Cincinnati all-time scoring record with 559 points.

"The knuckler," is Dave Green, a traditional American-style kicker from Athens, Ohio.

Muhlmann's kickoffs rotate on an angle and traditionally land deep in the end zone.

Green has developed something called "the hard to handle kick."

"It's not a pretty kick," said Green, a converted punter who got Muhlmann's assignment after the trade.

"It's almost a knuckler" similar to a baseball pitched with the knuckles instead of the fingers. The ball spins very little in flight and tends to waver.

"I try to kick it over somebody's head. It bounces funny making the other team late in starting their run-back. It also gives us a chance to recover the ball."

By PHIL LEWIS

With kickoff time for the 1975 high school football season ten days away and counting the eight members of the South Central Ohio League are hurriedly preparing for next Friday's season opener.

Two more SCOL head coaches, Mike Shoemaker of Unioto and Ron Wilt of Wilmington, are hanging the "teams to beat" tag on Washington C.H., Miami Trace and Circleville. Several coaches have pegged Greenfield as the league dark horse and after Saturday's McClain scrimmage with Blanchester the Tigers don't look so dark.

Circleville and Wilmington also fared well in the first allowed interscholastic scrimmages last Saturday.

GREENFIELD MCCLAIN ran all over Blanchester with the final score of the scrimmage posted at 33-6. The first team Tigers scored easily in the first quarter scoring touchdowns the first three times they received the ball.

The McClain defense held the opposition to four first downs with one of those coming on a penalty. Blanchester managed 193 total yard in the scrimmage with all of the yardage coming on the ground. Passing wise Blanchester tossed five aerials with all but one hitting the ground incomplete and it was picked off by Tiger defender Don Watts.

McClain coach Fred Brisker said he was pleased with his team's performance, but there are some defensive problems is worried about.

While Blanchester's Jack O'Rourke said his team looked bad passing, running and on defense. "It's the worst we've looked since I've been coaching here," he said.

CIRCLEVILLE also came up a winner during Saturday's action. Both teams scored three touchdowns, but the Tigers pushed across the two point conversion for a somewhat hollow "win" over Groveport.

However, all three of Groveport's scores came against Circleville's second and third team defenses.

The Tigers scored on a 62-yard run by Frank Merrill and two 15-yard gallops by Greg Berrigan and Joe Leahy.

Coach Larry Cook was pleased with his offense especially the line's blocking against "the strong multiple defense of Groveport."

Circleville will hold its second scrimmage tonight against Dayton Franklin at the Tiger's field.

WILMINGTON and Fairborn-Baker held each other to a single touchdown Saturday, but coach Ron Wilt was pleased with his offense except for the passing game.

One big bright spot emerged for the

Hurricanes as second string fullback Gary Losey rushed for over 100 yards and made five unassisted tackles from his linebacker position in what Wilt termed the "most outstanding performance in the scrimmage."

Losey, 180-pounder, was replacing lettermen Russell Crothwaite at running back. The 6'2", 215-pound Crothwaite is stuck out with an injury.

Quarterback Duane Early scored the Hurricanes only touchdown with two-yard run.

Wilt said his team isn't as far along as last year, because the coaching staff is looking at so many new faces and bringing the squad along more slowly than last year.

Wilmington will be trying to improve on last year's 5-5 mark when they open the season against Xenia next Friday.

THE MIAMI TRACE cheerleaders and athletes will be canvassing the county tonight hoping to sign up new Booster Club members.

The sign-up drive will begin at 5:30 p.m. and club memberships are $2.

NOT ONLY WILL fans get a free poster of Tony Perez Sunday if they attend the Cardinal-Reds game at Riverfront, but if they stick around for Monday's Labor Day contest with the San Diego Padres they will get to see and hear the Duke Ellington Band.

It's all part of the Big Band-Big Red Machine doubleheader starting at 6 p.m.

The band is under the direction of Mercer Ellington (the late Duke's son) and Anita Moore is the featured vocalist.

The Reds-Padres game will get under way one hour later beginning a week of baseball that will feature the Dodgers Giants and the Padres.

Stan Smith makes comeback attempt

FOREST HILLS, N.Y. (AP) — Stan Smith, the fair-haired American of international tennis in the late 1960s and early 70s, will attempt a comeback in the U.S. Open Championships tonight when he takes on Onny Parun of New Zealand.

It will mark the first under-the-lights match in the 94-year history of the tournament.

Smith, 28, winner at Forest Hills in 1969 and 1971, probably will welcome the illumination in the 15,500-seat stadium at the West Side Tennis Club. In 1973, he lost a semifinals heart-breaker to Jan Kodes of Czechoslovakia as daylight faded into dusk.

NFL contract talks deadlock

By ARTHUR H. ROTSTEIN

Associated Press Writer
CHICAGO (AP) — The Rozelle Rule has done it again.

It's put National Football League contract negotiations right back where they were. Nowhere.

The controversial rule proved the villain once more Tuesday, as representatives of the National Football League Players Association and NFL Management Council broke off negotiations after reaching an impasse on resolving their differences on the regulation.

Federal mediator James F. Searce said no progress was reached in the talks held Monday and Tuesday, despite a glint of movement earlier.

Talks between the two sides over option compensation as well as other issues barring agreement on a contract have carried on fruitlessly for more than a year.

Before last Friday, the players' group had refused to negotiate the Rozelle Rule before a court ruling on their suit challenging its legality.

The rule specifies that the original team owning a player who has played out his option year and signed with another must be adequately compensated. The compensation is determined by NFL Commissioner Pete Rozelle if the two teams cannot reach a settlement themselves.

Management has insisted that the rule must be negotiated before any contract is agreed upon.

The Chicago meeting came after NFLPA Executive Director Ed Garvey said the players would be willing to discuss a modification of the rule.

"I'm afraid we ran into some of the same old problems we had," said Searce. He characterized the Rozelle Rule as again "the key" hangup in the discussions.

"I don't want to cast a pall (on the situation)," he said, but he wasn't optimistic. In response to a question, he said, "Yeah, they (the talks) are at about the same place" as before the Chicago meeting. Monday night's talks, he said, "gave us some hope for some movement but it just didn't work out this way."

Searce, deputy director of the Federal Mediation and Conciliation

Service, said the talks have been broken off subject to call, but that he won't set up another meeting "until there's some evidence that we've got some place to go."

Both sides have been asked "to examine their positions," and "to see if they can come up with some other approaches," he said.

He would not define what other approaches he sought.

But he added, "We're gonna keep trying and we're looking."

Earlier, Wellington Mara of the New

York Giants, chairman of the management council, said in a statement: "The union reverted to its original position of March 1974 when it told us that it objected to any restraints on player movement. Obviously we regarded this as a most serious development."

He had called Monday's meeting "very beneficial."

A court verdict on the Rozelle Rule is possible later this year in a Minneapolis federal court, but Garvey said he thought the lawsuit could be settled.

Cincinnati policeman shot down

CINCINNATI, Ohio (AP) — A nine-year veteran policeman was shot to death late Tuesday night when he attempted to stop a man firing shots into the air from the street in front of a bar.

Dead was Specialist William Loftin, 36, a member of the vice squad and former narcotics agent.

Police Chief Carl Goodin said charges would be filed later today against a 52-year-old Cincinnati man, who is in hospital custody following surgery for wounds believed received during an exchange with Loftin's partner.

Loftin, who was under consideration for a commendation following an unsuccessful attempt to save a drowning girl, was "working the bars in Avondale," at the time of the shooting, according to Goodin.

Loftin was the third Cincinnati officer killed in a little more than year and the second black killed in the history of the department, Goodin said.

Homicide Lt. Daniel Cash indicated more arrests might follow. He said "about 20 witnesses are being questioned."

Both Cash and Goodin denied the shooting was connected with a homicide in the neighborhood earlier in the evening.

Michael Crowder, 21, of Cincinnati, was shot to death in a service station less than 200 feet from the bar. Two assailants escaped.

Cash said Loftin and his partner, Claude Dell, were in casual clothing looking for liquor, prostitution and narcotic offenses in the area.

The 20th century began on Jan. 1, 1901.

Speaking of Your Health...

Lester L. Coleman, M.D.

The Burden of Excess Weight

Why do intelligent people simply refuse to admit that 65 extra pounds is a dangerous burden to their hearts? My husband is one of those who can't be convinced.

Mrs. T.H., Ark.

Dear Mrs. H.:

A psychiatrist may entertain the complex reason of the death wish to explain such problems. Perhaps it does exist, yet I am more convinced that there are even intelligent people who refuse to recognize the extra load those 65 pounds are putting on their hearts.

It takes no particular brilliance to appreciate the fact that pounds of fat around the heart, blood vessels, liver and lungs do an injustice to the wonderful functioning of these organs.

Doctors are amazed that patients who cannot give up tobacco, excess alcohol and who cannot learn to modify emotional stress find they can do so after they have had their first heart attack.

Hard driving, unreasonable people seem to be miraculously converted into angels once they have been stricken by coronary heart disease.

They quickly learn that they are expendable in their businesses and that tobacco, alcohol and dietary excesses can be controlled.

Perhaps the psychiatrist is correct when he speaks about the death wish and that people tempt their fates, tottering on the brink of destruction before readjusting their patterns of living.

It falls within the province of the physician to bring a greater awareness to people like your husband of the need for re-evaluation of his total health picture.

Is it possible to see a piece of glass in the stomach? I think I may have swallowed it.

Miss R.E., R.I.

Dear Miss E.:

Only certain types of glass can be seen by X-ray. Glass that has lead in it, or other chemicals that give it opacity, can be seen.

SPEAKING OF YOUR HEALTH. The dinner table should be a good setting for relaxation. Eating periods should be free of emotional tension.

DR. COLEMAN welcomes letters from readers, and, while he cannot undertake to answer each one, he will use questions in his column whenever possible and when they are of general interest. Address your letters to Dr. Coleman in care of this newspaper.

Jack Douglas Finds Humor Even In Hotel Business Misadventure

By CHRIS CONKLING
NEW YORK (AP) — Comedy, says funnyman Jack Douglas, is protest.

"What else is it?" the humorist asked in an interview. "It's a complaint told in a funny way. Mark Twain once explained humor as the difference between the right word and the wrong word. To me it's the difference between lightning and the lightning bug."

Douglas began complaining in the late 1930s through the mouths of Bob Hope, Groucho Marx, Red Skelton and other top bananas of the time. He wrote many of their monologues. Through the years he has created barbs for Johnny Carson, Woody Allen, Garry Moore, Danny Thomas and Jimmy Durante. Television viewers will remember him as Jack Parr's early late-night sidekick.

Douglas says he "protests about almost everything." At the moment, he's griping about some people he got to know while living in Maine. Two years ago, he and his Japanese wife, Reiko, and their two young sons bought a hotel in the Rangeley Lakes section of the Pine Tree State, intending to convert it into a home.

As Douglas explains it, after taking title to the deed, they learned they would have to run the resort complex as a hotel and that the people of the community depended on the hotel's financial failure as a primary source of income. The Douglas also learned that the hotel had had six owners in as many years and that, as Douglas says, "It was fixed to self-destruct."

While Douglas aims at laughter in a book he has just written about his hotel misadventure, "Benedict Arnold Slept Here," he himself is not amused. He has initiated several law suits in the matter.

Hotel owning is only the latest of Douglas' professions. He was born in Tahiti, the son of a cable engineer, and began his professional life at age 14 playing drums in a band. He soon dropped his drumsticks for a pair of boxing gloves but before he sprouted cauliflower ears, he turned to writing comedy. He became a monologist and remembers playing Liverpool, England, where he found that his mettle wasn't strong enough for British audiences.

"I worked there in vaudeville for a couple of years," he relates. "Liverpool audiences are the toughest in the world. The theater I played in had a steel balcony in front of the stage, wife, Reiko, and their two young sons bought a hotel in the Rangeley Lakes section of the Pine Tree State, intending to convert it into a home.

Douglas says he wants to be known as a humorist. "What irritates me is when people call me a 'gag man.' You're a gag man when you write for a dollar a joke. I've done that, but it was a long time ago."

He never finished high school, but he has a lifetime contract to teach comedy writing at the University of Maine. "When we were living in Maine," he explains, "I taught one semester on the 'Craft of Comedy' and the university president sent me a contract for life. I taught students how to write for laughs, which is kind of a laugh itself since I don't think writing can be taught. The only way to learn how to write is to write."

His first writing job was on Bob Hope's radio show in 1939. "He paid me 50 bucks a week," Douglas recalls. "I was afraid to write for myself until I did the standup comic routine on the nightclub circuit in the '50s. 'I never did like working nightclubs. You have to sleep late because you work late. And you really can't enjoy the daytime. You can go to a movie in the afternoon but you can't concentrate on the film because you're thinking about the show that night."

Woman in 'fair' condition after accidental shooting

A Washington C.H. woman is presently listed in fair condition at Fayette Memorial Hospital after sustaining an accidental gunshot wound to her left chest.

Washington C.H. police reported Rosalie Watkins, 52, of 745 Dayton Ave., removed a loaded pistol from the trunk of her car at 10:15 a.m. Tuesday and carried it toward her garage. When she stooped to move a saw-horse which was in her path the gun discharged accidentally propelling the bullet through the left side of her chest at a downward angle where it lodged in her lower back, police reported.

Police reported a second personal injury today and an attempted burglary. Fayette County Sheriff's deputies reported a motorcycle theft.

Ten-month-old Michelle Stump, Nevada, Mo., was injured when she fell from a shopping cart at Kroger's, Clinton Avenue, at 6:50 p.m. Tuesday. Police said the girl was taken to Fayette Memorial Hospital where she was treated and released.

Power facilities map published

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — A map showing the distribution of electric power generating and transmission facilities in Ohio has been published by the Department of Natural Resources' division of geological survey.

The map also shows the location of proposed nuclear-powered generating stations, said Horace R. Collins, head of the geological survey.

A lock on a storage building belonging to the Frito-Lay Co., Dayton, behind 813 Sycamore St. was found pried open at 7 a.m. Tuesday. Police stated the building was not entered and the damage to the lock occurred sometime between the time of discovery and 4:30 p.m. Monday.

A 1971 Suzuki 500 motorcycle belonging to James B. Wixted, Lexington, Ky., was stolen from Garner's Union 76 Truck Stop, I-71 and U.S. 35, between Aug. 12 and 1:30 p.m. Tuesday. Deputies reported Wixted had been having engine trouble with the motorbike on I-71 and had left it at Garner's, planning to return at a later date.

'Library' of gerbils readied

DAYTON, Ohio (AP) — Shoup Mill life science classes will have access to a critter library this fall — and parents may find themselves playing host to gerbils their youngsters have checked out.

Shoup Mill life science teacher Howard Henry, 49, says he has 50 gerbils which will be loaned to any of his students who want them for a short time this fall.

"Gerbils are odorless and they practically never bite," Henry said. "They are inquisitive and fun."

When a student borrows a gerbil, the animal comes complete with a cage, a supply of food, a water bottle and special instructions for care waiting to go home with a youngster.

Henry, who has to share the tiny, soft, brown animals with 1,500 students, said he will have to work out the special

Batavia motorist charged

A Batavia driver was cited following a two-car accident at 10:02 a.m. Tuesday on I-71 near the U.S. 35 junction.

Ohio Highway Patrolman Loren Butcher said Mark D. Ryan, 22, of Batavia, was charged with following too closely when he struck a car driven by Donna Y. Nishime, 19, Cincinnati.

Both drivers were northbound on I-71 when dogs ran in front of the Nishime auto. Ms. Nishime braked and hit one of the dogs and Ryan who was traveling behind the Nishime auto, attempted to pass on the right berm, striking the Nishime auto in the right front and then colliding with a guardrail.
